

TOWARD A SOLUTION

Would U.S. Scrap Bases In Turkey?

By MAX FREEDMAN

(Mr. Freedman, correspondent in Washington for The Guardian, is regarded as one of the most authoritative members of the press corps in the U.S. capital. He has made this assessment of the current crisis.)

WASHINGTON—Even while the world anxiously awaits the march of events in the Caribbean area, and studies the possibilities of a clash between Russian and American power, the thinking of the Kennedy administration has turned towards a peaceful settlement which may save mankind from nuclear war.

There is no chance at all of this hope being made a foundation for action if the policy of the United States is regarded in Moscow as the product of divided aims, of feeble will, or timid power.

First essential is that Russian leaders, in this hour of unexampled crisis, must realize that the United States will shrink from no sacrifice and escape from no burden in carrying out, with consistent courage, all the responsibilities involved in the policy of blockade now proclaimed and enforced by President Kennedy. If this fact is fully grasped by the Soviet Union, and if it is clearly understood that no settlement is possible at the price of retreat and dishonor, then it becomes possible at least to consider the outline of a settlement.

The first point to be made, with the utmost emphasis, is that the Kennedy administration welcomes the efforts of the neutral and smaller countries to enlist the moral authority of Secretary-General U Thant in a supreme attempt to use the power of the United Nations to avert an armed clash between the two nuclear giants.

The second point is that the United States has far more detailed and conclusive evidence of the military build-up in Cuba than the examples, copious and significant in themselves, which have been made available to the press.

Sir David Ormsby Gore, the British ambassador, is completely aware of the present military situation in Cuba, together with its threat to the security of this hemisphere. This information, conveyed to London, has not been without its influence in producing the decision of the British government.

Explicit, Reliable Information

The third point is that the world would be astonished, and Premier Castro himself would be amazed, if the United States ever breached its own intelligence system to the extent of revealing the diverse sources inside Cuba itself from which it has received explicit and reliable information of the highest importance.

Deliberately underestimating the figure in the interests of preserving confidential information, it can be reported that it is not wholly misleading to say that Cuba now has 30 missile sites with 90 ballistic weapons, medium and larger size.

The fourth point is that the cardinal document in the American case is not President Kennedy's address on Monday night, but his press conference statement on September 13 in which he defined, in the most precise terms, the conditions under which the United States would adopt a harsh policy towards Cuba. Dominating that statement in September was the pledge that and "Cuba st. Yankee no." VIENNA (AP)—More than 1,000 Czechoslovaks marched on the U.S. Embassy in Prague today and some demonstrators from its staff just above the main entrance.

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow today resumed anti-American demonstrations outside the U.S. Embassy. It was the second day of protests against the American armed quarantine of Cuba.

An embassy official reached by telephone from Vienna said the street in front of the embassy was full of demonstrators chanting "Yankee go home."

Invasion Promise

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—President Chiang Kai-shek said today the Nationalist Chinese government will launch a military offensive against the Chinese mainland "for a halt to the quarantine within the shortest period of time."

Mr. Diédenbaker said he would not go into detail on what further measures the government was prepared to take if circumstances required.

The prime minister commended the proposal of UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant for a halt to the quarantine and to the arms buildup in Cuba.

There was a round of applause from all quarters of the Commons when the prime minister said: "We intend to support the U.S. and our other allies in this situation."

The cabinet today had approved measures which the armed forces would have to put into effect if the situation became more serious.

Mr. Diédenbaker said he would not go into detail on what further measures the government was prepared to take if circumstances required.

The prime minister commended the proposal of UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant for a halt to the quarantine and to the arms buildup in Cuba.

A defence ministry spokesman said the withdrawal took place according to plan. Wednesday after fighting in the outskirts of the town which is near the junction of the Indian, Tibetan and Bhutan borders.

The abbot of the town's historic monastery and some 200 monks were among 200 to 300 civilians—a large proportion of the town's population—who were safely evacuated, he said.

Tawang, site of the Buddhist monastery where the Dalai Lama sheltered on his flight from Tibet in 1959, is the main Indian administrative centre in the salient between Bhutan and Tibet.

Chinese troops could move south from Tawang to seize the Sela Ridge, a natural defensive boundary which is the key to the salient.

The salient would give the Chinese the back door into Bhutan through the Manjang Valley and pose a permanent invasion threat across Bhutan to the Indian Plains.

The spokesman said fighting was still going on in the northeast frontier region after a new Chinese attack on two Indian posts there.

Hundreds of miles to the west in the Ladakh region of north Kashmir Indian troops had repulsed Chinese attacks on one of their posts a few miles from the airstrip at Chushul.

Following a Chinese attack Oct. 20 on another post in the Galwan Valley region of Ladakh the Indians had withdrawn to regroup after "some fighting."

Today's announcement came after Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru warned that Communist China has massed nearly 30,000 troops along India's northeast frontier.

He told executives of his ruling Congress party the "massive invasion" of India has made the nation realize it had been "out of touch with reality" over the frontier dispute.

But he told the party leaders not to be despondent about Indian reverses in the fighting and called for a defence build-up.

BULLETIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev tonight agreed to a United Nations appeal for a two-to three-week freeze on the Cuban crisis involving the United States and Russia.

ANSWER TO THANT

Kennedy to Ask For Guarantees

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported ready to tell U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, that he could accept only under certain conditions the Burmese diplomat's plea for a two-week freeze of the Cuban arms blockade.

Authoritative sources said Kennedy's reply could be termed a conditional acceptance or at least not a complete turn-down.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said Kennedy was still working on a reply late this morning.

Informants said Kennedy welcomed U Thant's motives in asking Russia to stop sending war material to Cuba and asking the U.S. to suspend its quarantine of Cuba for two weeks.

State department officials declined to spell out the conditions Kennedy would make in his proposed reply, but they confirmed that the president stressed the necessity of getting certain guarantees before even considering the secretary-general's suggestion.

He informed the Commons of precautions the government has taken "at this stage" so that Canada can support the U.S. and its other allies in the current situation.

Other measures include:

1. No long leaves for armed forces personnel at this time.

2. Civilian departments instructed to bring up to date measures which would be required in an emergency.

3. The Emergency Measures Organization—federal, provincial and municipal—told to be on the alert.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the U.S. and its allies in the West today to stand firm behind the United States over the Cuban crisis while leaving every way open for a Russian retreat.

Thant noted that there is some common ground—a call for negotiations—in rural resolutions presented by the U.S. and Russia on the Cuban question.

URGES NEGOTIATIONS

Thant urged the two world leaders to seize this point of agreement and order negotiations. He said he was acting at the recent request of "a large number" of UN members—45 non-aligned countries—who have been intensely active for the last few days in trying to find a solution of the deadlock between the U.S. and Russia.

After Thant's speech, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson proposed an adjournment until 4 p.m. EDT today for study of the secretary-general's proposal.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister and council president for October, declared the motion carried.

There must be no break or wavering among the allies, which he said was sought by the Russians as the main goal of their foreign policy.

But he also said "no possible path of retreat by the Soviet government which might be opened should be closed."

Macmillan urged the fullest use of the United Nations in solving the crisis must be resolved "without a form of appeasement which will lead us into greater danger."

Vessel Not Boarded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. navy blockade ship intercepted a Russian tanker in the Atlantic early today but let it proceed through the quarantine ring to Cuba because no prohibited materials were aboard.

The high seas encounter was the first reported since President Kennedy ordered the naval blockade to cut off the flow of Communist missiles and other aggressive weapons to the Fidel Castro regime.

The defense department said that at least 12 other Soviet ships which might be carrying offensive material had turned back, presumably rather than meet the blockade head on.

RADIO CONTACT

Reports from Congressmen and governors attending a state department briefing in New York said the only contact was by radio and that there was no boarding party.

There was no official confirmation of this here. But the defense department announced that the tensely-waited meeting between a Russian and a U.S. ship had occurred without incident.

New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, who was present for the New York briefing, said the Soviet captain answered a radio message from the U.S. ship.

The Soviet captain, according to another Congressman, said his cargo consisted of petroleum. There has been no ban on shipments of this to Cuba.

Hughes also said there was other information that made it unnecessary to board the ship. In Washington, there was speculation that the vessel and the nature of its cargo may have been known in advance through intelligence activities.

ELECTION OF LIBERAL NULLIFIED

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Chief Justice R. S. Furlong and Mr. Justice H. A. Winters filed separate decisions in Newfoundland Supreme Court registry today declaring void the June 18 election of Liberal Richard Cashin in St. John's West.

Former solicitor general William J. Browne, who lost the seat to Mr. Cashin by 24 votes, petitioned the court to declare the election void on the grounds of irregularities in the armed services vote.

Leading this group is the Polish ship, he said, and on the basis of its present speed and position, it may be confronted by the blockade later today—perhaps in the afternoon.

Of all the Soviet-bloc countries, the U.S. has been operating closest with Poland, providing grain and other assistance on the basis that Poland might eventually be weaned away from the Soviet camp.

NEED MACHINERY

"To be of maximum value," Mr. Pearson said, of the U.S. Thant proposal, "there should be machinery to ensure it, some international patrol which would be able to inspect and oversee ships going to Cuba."

It is most important to ensure that no supplies are getting into Cuba and to ensure the situation did not worsen by action inside Cuba itself.

"It would have to include ships of nations which are not directly involved in the dispute, of non-aligned countries, otherwise they would be suspect." Mr. Pearson mentioned one country as a possible contributor — Sweden. So far as getting his "supplement" raised in the United Nations was concerned, Mr. Pearson said he would be "surprised" if it had not already been thought of by someone there.

About the defence committee meeting, Mr. Pearson said he was invited to attend this morning by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Members of the committee are the prime minister, Defence Minister Harkness, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny, and Finance Minister Nowlan.

BRIEFED BY CHIEFS

All were briefed by the chiefs of staff on the military situation. Mr. Diefenbaker said he thought the invitation to Mr. Pearson was "an appropriate step"; it was designed to give the opposition leader a "briefing in general on the situation."

While the prime minister declined to go into detail on the briefing, Mr. Pearson said it covered such matters as the freighters which were moving across the Atlantic towards Cuba; the build-up of arms in Cuba; some "technical" information that has not been made public yet. Mr. Pearson said he expected the government intended to keep him in the picture as developments occur.

lators, who were reassembling after summer vacation.

The message said her government was "in close consultation with the United Nations that Russia's policy in Cuba has endangered the peace."

Finally, the settlement if it is to be acceptable, is to be regarded neither as a triumph for Russia nor as a victory for the United States but as a service for peace that may give the United Nations increased authority for dealing with ultimate challenges to world order.

The result of such a settlement might produce a new access of hope in the search for agreement on general disarmament, of which the problem of overseas bases is an important element, but no more than one consideration:

In this sombre hour it is essential that the rulers of Russia should know that the men in power in Washington are not only men of courage but are also, and to an equal degree, men of peace and good will. If such men can also be found in Moscow, the peace of the world can yet be made secure.

CALLS IT TEST

Macmillan charged the Russian action in sending offensive weapons to Cuba could not be regarded as a "deliberate adventure and determination of the United States."

"We must try to relieve this immediate danger without a form of appeasement which will lead us into greater danger or merely postpone danger."

"But having done that, we should use it as a new impetus to see whether we cannot proceed with wider negotiations which alone can give real peace to the world."

President Kennedy's "quarantine" proclamation was designed to meet a situation without precedent, he said.

"Indeed they (the Americans) were studiously moderate in that they referred only to the disclosure of certain limited types of war material" in their Cuban blockade."

PLEDGES SUPPORT

His government was concerned that "this new threat to security should be dealt with as rapidly as possible, and will add its support to any measures which genuinely lead to that end."

Macmillan declined to answer directly when parliamentary opponents asked whether the British government had been consulted before the American blockade was announced.

Nor would he affirm that any "formal invitation" had been extended by the Soviet Union for a summit conference.

CHURCHMAN BACKS U.S.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury said Wednesday he was sure that people throughout the free world are in sympathy with the United States in the move to blockade Cuba. U.S. Gives Details of Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department Wednesday released what it called undeniable intelligence reports that at least 30 missiles and more than 20 Russian-built jet bombers are in Cuba.

Assistant Defence Secretary Arthur Sylvester said there are eight to 20 missile bases located near four cities, with each base having about four rocket launchers.

The cities were identified as Guanajay, Remedios, San Cristobal and Sagua la Grande.

Sylvester told reporters that release of this information was authorized by U.S. intelligence agencies.

He said that there are at least 5,000 Russians in Cuba, adding "the exact number cannot be determined because of personnel there having arrived on a number of ships and aircraft."

CAREFUL GOVERNMENT REPLIESCuba Overshadows Budget In Worried Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — Though it der opposition questioning, to wasn't on the agenda. Cuba dominated the deliberations of the House of Commons Wednesday.

The international crisis centred on the island in the Caribbean completely overshadowed a budget debate that was supposed to be the main order of business.

Anxious members put 24 oral questions to the government bearing on Cuba. They received brief, laconic replies, carefully phrased to avoid any possibility of exacerbating the situation.

The main disclosure came from Defence Minister Harkness who announced in answer to a question by Paul Hellyer (L-Toronto Trinity) that rotation of four army units between Canada and Germany has been postponed until the present situation is "clarified."

Some 8,300 soldiers and dependents are affected by the order.

Toward a Showdown

MR. KHRUSHCHEV says in his telegram to Lord Russell that Russia does not want war and will do "everything" which depends on us" to prevent it. If he means that then there will be no war. For everything depends now on Russia—not on its speeches but on its acts.

By accepting the inspection of its ships in Cuban waters Russia can instantly deflate the world crisis. By defying the quarantine it can precipitate an armed clash which might well lead to war.

By mid-morning today it appeared that some of the Russian ships bound for Cuba had altered course, undoubtedly on the instructions of the Russian government. But it was by no means clear that some Communist ships would turn back from the zone of danger.

Within hours the first of many questions overhanging the crisis should be answered in the Caribbean. If he does not try to break the quarantine we can take it that Mr. Khrushchev is honest in seeking a peaceful solution, for the moment anyway. If he compels the United States to use force then the prospects will be extremely grave.

Meanwhile a feverish bustle of diplomacy has produced three pieces of hard news and certain tentative hopes of escape from the ultimate catastrophe.

Mr. U Thant, the able Secretary-General of the United Nations, has appealed to the United States, Russia and Cuba for moderation and proposed a formula of settlement. Under his formula the United States would suspend its quarantine for two or three weeks while Russia suspended arms shipments to Cuba.

President Kennedy, though he had not spoken publicly at this writing, finds this proposal unacceptable in its present form. How can he be sure, without United Nations inspectors in Cuba, that Russia has ceased to move weapons there after the American quarantine is lifted? The President, not questioning Mr. U Thant's motives, evidently fears a Russian trap and has good reason to fear it after being deceived by the Moscow government and by Mr. Gromyko in person. Nevertheless, he may accept the U Thant formula under certain conditions not yet specified. Apart from the clear risks of war Mr. Kennedy runs serious political risks in his firm policy. For if he appears to reject any reasonable compromise he can alarm and perhaps alienate the support of the uncommitted

ALL WHO SAW MR. ALAN Edwards' picture in yesterday's Times will have been struck by the wealth of charming architecture which we as a community are ignoring in the old Court House area. Restored on paper by his brush, as it could be restored in reality by a clean-up, paint-up campaign, the Court House Square provides ample evidence that it could become one of the most attractive neighborhoods in the city.

There are several prospective plans for use of the Court House—as a museum, as an arts centre in various ways. These should be studied by the authorities concerned and the best one selected and implemented.

This centennial year has been very productive of excellent suggestions for improvement of the

Making Punishment Fit the Crime

NO SANE MOTORIST WOULD consciously endanger the lives of small children by a wilful breach of safety regulations in a school zone. But decent, generally reliable citizens, through thoughtlessness or wool-gathering, can create such a hazard.

Municipal Judge Blair Gibbons of Santa Monica seems to appreciate that point. He has recently convicted three people of driving through a school crossing while child pedestrians were in the zone and has set a penalty which should have constructive value.

Hope for the Festival

THE VANCOUVER INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL, high in artistic achievement but a loser at the box office, can survive with a program next year if the people of Vancouver and British Columbia want it to.

Premier Bennett has promised $25,000 to be used to reduce the present $50,000 indebtedness if the public will match the government contribution.

This is a direct appeal to the nations who have no military power but are vital to the American position.

Hence the third piece of news, as printed in this newspaper today, may be the most important of all.

Mr. Max Freedman, The Times' correspondent and one of the best-informed observers in Washington, writes that the United States is willing to consider a deal with Russia. If, says Mr. Freedman, Russia will liquidate its military base in Cuba the United States will consider the liquidation of its base in Turkey.

Mr. Freedman, a highly responsible journalist, who is a close friend of the President and whose dispatches to the Guardian of Manchester are read all over the world, did not write such a report without certain knowledge. The Russian government knows that and will be quick to perceive the significance of this initiative toward some kind of accommodation. Moscow's reaction will be awaited with anxiety even if, for diplomatic purposes, Mr. Freedman's dispatch is officially discounted in Washington.

Meanwhile, as Mr. U Thant says, the United Nations faces its supreme test. Its clear duty is to insist on the right to inspect the Cuban bases, the core of the crisis, but the Security Council has not yet reached a vote on an American resolution to that effect.

In all probability Russia, as usual, will veto such a resolution and its own condemnation of the United States will be rejected in turn. Then, presumably, the dispute will be carried to the Assembly where no veto can be applied.

Then we shall see whether a majority of members, representing a majority of mankind, can agree on a verdict, whether, in fact, the United Nations is impotent or not. It has no military power of its own but its moral power, if it takes a definite position and demands the right to enter Cuba, would be difficult, if not impossible, for the defiant Dr. Castro to resist.

The present formal discussions in the Security Council, we may be sure, are only the echoes of the real argument proceeding behind the scenes at New York. The Security Council adjourned until this afternoon undoubtedly to give the diplomats of the great powers time to attempt serious negotiations.

Whether there is time enough to arrest the fast-moving crisis must depend mainly on Russia's real intentions as expressed not alone in Mr. Khrushchev's telegrams but in the movements of his ships and weapons during the next few hours.

THE strongest argument for the grim decision the president announced on Monday was not any of those which are now being most widely repeated. The problem of Castro was pressing, of course. It was utterly unacceptable, for Soviet offensive missiles to be emplaced in Cuba. But this kind of Soviet use of Fidel Castro, and the resulting gain in Soviet nuclear striking power, were not the true essence of the problem. As the president more than hinted in his remarkable speech to the nation, the true essence of the problem was the American posture vis-a-vis the Soviet Union.

The president has also long argued as reported in this space, that the painful irritant in Cuba has to be subordinated to the grave and present danger at Berlin. But this argument lost its validity on Tuesday morning a week ago when the president, while still in bed, received the news that Soviet medium and intermediate range ballistic missiles were being hastily emplaced on Cuban soil.

Single Problem

At that moment, the Cuban problem and the Berlin problem merged together, into a single problem.

The reason for this sudden merger, as you think about the circumstances, was very simple, indeed.

In his Cuban press conference in September, the president said that the Soviet military effort in Cuba required no American action, so long as the purpose was plainly defensive. But almost in the same breath, he added that American action would have to be considered if the Cuban build-up assumed an offensive character.

The significance of this statement was well understood by the Kremlin, as indicated by the fact summarized by the president on Monday. The official Soviet press hastened to answer the president with reassuring statements that the aim of Soviet "aid" to Cuba was purely to increase Cuba's defensive strength.

Thereafter, the Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin, repeatedly swore to leading personages in the U.S. government that ballistic missiles would never be emplaced in Cuba. With smooth perfidy, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko gave the president the same assurance when the contrary evidence was already in the president's hand.

Soon Revealed

All the while, quite naturally, the Kremlin was well aware that American U-2s and other instruments of surveillance would inevitably reveal the true state of affairs to the U.S. government, as soon as the ballistic missiles began to be emplaced on their Cuban sites.

Hence passive acceptance of the accomplished fact that the Kremlin was seeking to create in Cuba would have transformed the president's September warning into the weakest and emptiest sort of bluff.

Precisely because of the grave danger at Berlin, and for many other reasons as well, the United States and its president cannot afford to be regarded by the Kremlin as braggarts and bluffers. President Kennedy has pursued a policy of careful moderation—so careful, indeed, that it was provoking partisan

But he has never fully explained to the people how the loss of our nuclear monopoly, even though we are still

NOTING that the Farnborough Air Show will not be held every year in future, a letter to the Times lamens thus:

"A sad commentary—almost an epitaph!!!"

Use of three exclamation marks in one of England's more excitable papers could be overlooked. But appearing in the Times makes the thing look respectable.

Must we now start boning up on the use of the multiple! and the multiple?, which is bound to come too? We are not yet agreed on the use of the single!.

Should the number of exclamation marks show the degree of excitement or the number of exciting implications in the exclamatory sentence?

If it is degree, and if "almost an epitaph" takes !!!, what could "indeed an epitaph" take? !!!!!!!

But perhaps the Times' correspondent erred. Perhaps it should be thus:

"A sad commentary! Almost an epitaph! An epitaph indeed!!! Or worse!!!!"

But if the number of punctuation marks is to show the number of surprising, or questionable implications in the sentence, what complications then? Suppose an exclamation contained two exciting implications, each of which raised three questions, each of which invited three possible answers, each of them exclamatory?

"Almost an epitaph!!!!!!"

Or perhaps the proper order of punctuation would be:

"Almost an epitaph! ?!!!!!! ?!!!!!! ?!!!!!!"

That comma seemed necessary to make the meaning clear.

By WALTER LIPPmann
From Washington

If Mr. Khrushchev wants to defend Castro, he does not have to do it in Cuba where the Soviet Union is a negligible military power. He can do it in Turkey or Iran or elsewhere on the perimeter.

These things need to be understood by our people as we find ourselves in a military crisis over Cuba. Until our people do understand them, they will be thinking and feeling and voting in a world that no longer exists.

In the world that now exists the United States is not omnipotent. It cannot, therefore, enforce the Monroe Doctrine in the Western hemisphere and the Truman Doctrine in the Eastern hemisphere.

As Our Readers See It

What They Say

It is regrettable that the editors of both Victoria dailies have sought to mislead the public by erroneously asserting that a policy of cleavage re-public ownership of power exists between two eminent Social Credit leaders, namely, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and M. Real Caouette. Such an interpretation ignores the facts.

Mr. Caouette, on the eve of a provincial election in his home province of Quebec, has declared his opposition to public ownership and to the proposal of his political opponents to expropriate privately owned power plants.

Our own Premier Bennett, on the eve of the last provincial election in B.C., only two short years ago, took exactly the same position: he opposed public ownership and the proposal of his political opponents to expropriate the B.C. Electric.

Cleavage! Their policies are identical.

Premier Bennett's subsequent action respecting the B.C. Electric represented no change of policy. That was based on an entirely different principle—the principle that the federal government has no right taxing an industry operating in the province.

That is a policy or principle stemming directly from basic Social Credit doctrine that governments, instead of taxing money away from the people, should be paying them dividends. M. Caouette based his election campaign on that principle.

Social Credit policy must not be judged by what its leaders do: it is what they say that matters.

Tongue Out of Cheek

Your editorial of Friday, October 12, has been called to my attention. I am pleased to know that you recognized the position of my tongue when I was speaking to the Service Club.

One of the unfortunate results of speaking with a tongue in this position is that the words are sometimes not clearly understood! Unfortunately, the only error in the account in the Vancouver Province was the replacement of the word "British Columbia" with "Canada". Thus, whereas I was discussing the low per-capita ratio of cultivated land and people in British Columbia, the story says that I referred this ratio to Canada.

Canada, as your editorial points out, has a large area of cultivated land and therefore my statement would find objection among many intelligent Canadians who know that our per-capita cultivated land area is large.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Hiatus Hernia at 77

A 77-year-old man writes to say that sometimes he has a little pain in his chest. X-ray studies have shown that if he lies down and strains hard, an inch of the floor of his stomach will slip up alongside of his gullet. It will do this in thousands of people who were born with a larger than normal opening in the midriff where the gullet goes through. Almost all of these people lived all their lives without being bothered by their little peculiarity, and they never even knew of it. Why should they now be operated on for it? I do not know.

The old man who writes me says his surgeon insists on performing the big and dangerous operation—required to tighten the hole; but he, the patient, does not want the operation, and wonders what I think about it. He says his good old family doctor is much against the idea. In the first place, the family doctor is not sure that the "hernia" is producing the occasional slight pain the man has in his chest; second, the pain is easily bearable; and third, the operation could easily be followed by a fatal result.

I am all in favor of the advice given by the old doctor; I agree heartily with him. As he says, in his long lifetime he has seen many an operation performed to remove some little defect which wasn't causing symptoms; also there was no certainty that after the surgery the patient would be any better off. I always admire greatly the eminent surgeons like Dr. Isidor Raydin or Dr. John Cline or Dr. Norman Miller, who will get up in a big meeting, and say "Let's

That Cold War Is Cool, Man

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiations between Nikita Khrushchev and Irv Lichtenstein are on the brink. It is not clear, however, what they are on the brink of.

All that can be said with certainty is that Lichtenstein feels he has gone as far as he can go. The next move is up to Khrushchev, who may have gone farther than he can go.

Lichtenstein, I should explain for those of you who came in late, is a local radio station executive and do-it-yourself diplomat. I assume you know who Khrushchev is.

Last month, by-passing such traditional diplomatic channels as the United Nations, the state department and David Susskind, Lichtenstein wrote a letter to Khrushchev proposing a cultural exchange.

He said he would have his disc jockeys at station WWDC broadcast Russia's 10 most popular songs if Radio Moscow would, in turn, broadcast America's 10 top tunes.

Subsequently, Lichtenstein received 10 recordings from Moscow, which were duly aired. I heard some of them and they sounded like they needed airing.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Plan Now to Fill Spring Gap

When the daffodils and tulips have passed their zenith in spring we look for early summer plants to take their place.

All too often we think a gap between the two is unavoidable yet if thought is given to the subject at this time, continuous show of Hilda color may be maintained.

By the end of May most of us are too busy with vegetable sowings and bedding plants to take immediate action, so that we like to have something of a permanent nature to carry on the color.

As an easy way out, several plants of the rich rosy-pink German Catch-fly, or Sticky-lychnis (Lychnis viscaria flore plena) can be associated with yellow Leopard's-Bane (Doronicum plantaginaceum).

The lychnis is a low growing, distant relative of the pinks, and has similar narrow leaves in a basal rosette. They are dark green, however, instead of grey, and the stiff jointed stems rise only to a height of about 10 inches.

On the top four or five inches of stem are tightly clustered the many fully double pink flowers. They last for several weeks, and one plant will produce a succession of flower stems.

The clear yellow of the daisy-like flowers of the Leopard's-bane is one of the few colors which may be used in association with the brilliant pink of the lychnis.

Growing taller than the lychnis, the stems of Leopard's-bane will reach as much as 20 inches, but since they are wiry and branching, they do not crowd or obscure the others, and are excellent as cut flowers for the home.

Both these plants grow rapidly in any average garden soil, and while their preference is for sunshine they will provide ample color and interest when receiving shade for part of the day.

Their only enemy that I have found is a stiff clay which bakes in summer and is too wet in winter, and that kind of soil can be changed in a couple of years with humus from the compost pile plus some coarse sand.

Drop Tourist Promotion, Improve Victoria Instead

John Wallace Wednesday took a powerful swipe at efforts to sidetrack city council into bank-rolling a risky tourist promotion instead of spending money on civic improvements.

Mr. Wallace, president of the Chamber of Commerce, made his comments as an individual during an informal talk to the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He said city fathers should not overlook "the one thing we've got—a very beautiful city."

He said further improvement of the city would be a permanent benefit to residents and help the city's tourist appeal more than "rather risky financial ventures during a six-week period in the summer."

OBLIQUE REFERENCE

(It apparently was an oblique reference to a current drive by the centennial society)

CANADA MUST BECOME MORE COMPETITIVE

MONTREAL (CP)—A prominent U.S. economist predicted Wednesday night that Canada's austerity program will bring her foreign exchange reserves up to normal levels by the end of 1962.

Dr. Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University said Canada must become more competitive if she wishes to avoid another financial crisis like the one that drained more than $1,000,000,000 of foreign exchange reserves in the six months up to June of this year.

Dr. Harris, also a senior consultant to the U.S. secretary of the treasury, was giving the opening address at a McGill University conference on world affairs.

Tax-Free Position Of Credit Unions Hit

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—The assault on the tax-free status of credit unions was renewed Tuesday by the executive wing of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and one of the country's leading tax experts.

Both the chamber and Dr. A. K. Eaton of Ottawa contended that the credit union movement has lost its rural character and has expanded so rapidly across Canada that it has become big business, and as such should pay income tax.

But they may have been barking up the wrong tree in taking their case to the royal commission on banking and finance. Significantly, they were questioned at length on all sections of their submissions except the credit union issue.

This, added to earlier statements by commission chairman Chief Justice Dana Porter of Ontario, reinforced indications that he and his colleagues will decide to drop this contentious question into the lap of the new royal commission on taxation.

The other vexing credit union problem would remain with the Porter commission, however.

This is whether the unions—being outside federal control—are responding as they should to general monetary conditions and, if not, what should be done about it.

The chamber said Tuesday it opposes the tax-free status of the credit unions as a concession to business activities, just as it opposes subsidies for government-operated financial institutions.

Dr. Eaton, former assistant deputy minister for taxation in the revenue department and now an Ottawa consultant, said taxing the unions would not slow down their growth or hurt their existence appreciably, Dr. Eaton said. The tax would make little difference in their lending rates or their rates paid on deposits.

However, ending the exemption would "wipe out the strong feeling of resentment that exists today because of the privileged position of credit unions in tax law."

JUBA RETURNED AS MAYOR OF WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Voters returned Mayor Stephen Juba to office for his fourth consecutive two-year term Wednesday with a landslide majority.

The 48-year-old businessman outpolled lawyer Robert Moffat 62,773 to 14,227 in the two-man race in Canada's fourth-largest city.

The mayor announced he will make a personal submission to the recently appointed Metro Review Commission for a referendum on amalgamation of Greater Winnipeg's member municipalities into one big city.

Mr. Juba said his plan for amalgamation would "provide more services for the tax dollar in Greater Winnipeg."

"There's too much inefficiency and duplication," he said.

National Forest Products Week

OCTOBER 21 - 27, 1962

British Columbia has a big stake in the success of NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK—October 21 to 27—which we are now celebrating in Canada.

In the comparatively few years since the first white navigated the wide prairie, scaled the Great Barrier Reef of the Rockies and followed the westward flowing rivers to Interior B.C. and the Pacific Shore, our attitude toward the forests has undergone an astonishing change. To the early settlers the forest was nothing but a downright nuisance, something to be hacked down and burned off to make room for farms and homesteads—something to be fought and defeated.

Today, we recognize that good agricultural land constitutes but a minute fraction of B.C.'s total acreage (approximately 2 per cent) and that the greater part of our land area is fitted only for the production of tree crops. By the cold logic of climate, soil and topography, British Columbia is irrefutably committed to a forest economy.

The future of British Columbia is bound to the future of her forests and it seems only fitting at this time that we should join with the rest of the nation in recognizing the part the forest has played and will continue to play in the life of the people. We are heartily pleased to join in a salute to NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK.

People Must Give Answer

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

From the beginnings of their nation Canadians have always assumed, much too glibly, that if the worst comes to the worst they can solve all their problems by joining the United States. In good times this final solution has been pushed down into the dim, subconscious regions of the national mind. In bad, Hutchison it emerges into the conscious.

Today, when Canada faces a crisis not only of finance and economics but of confidence in itself, the old possibility of escape by peaceful surrender to a rich, friendly neighbor reappears—not yet as an open political issue, of course, but nevertheless coloring the whole political process. The politicians secretly, the ordinary citizen openly, ask themselves anew whether Canada can permanently maintain a state which defies geography and is now in deep trouble.

Keep Independence

That question was raised at the start of these dispatches. Lest there be any mistake about it, the writer has no doubt that Canada can, should and will preserve its independence.

But despite all its prodigious achievements so far it will ultimately fail and seek the rescue of its neighbor unless it can manage its affairs better than they are being managed now. The result of our present mismanagement, continued much longer, is inevitable. It is the end of Canadian independence.

As in earlier times of crisis, however, the Canadian instinct, I am persuaded, will meet the historic challenge with the old response and save the nation once it understands the danger.

The real danger does not lie in the United States. It has no designs on Canadian independence and plenty of its native troubles without acquiring ours. The real danger lies in Canada, in our failure to marshal our abundant resources, physical, political and spiritual.

Own Mistakes

One of the consequences, among many, is our excessive dependence on our neighbors. Of this dependence the latest symbol was our government's desperate appeal to Washington last June for huge loans that were instantly granted just before Canada had crossed the line of bankruptcy by its own mistakes.

In political debate our dependence is usually considered with emotions, prejudices and partisan ambitions. Examined with facts, it takes on a very different look.

The first fact is our military dependence, absolute and unalterable as fact as we can see ahead. In the field of defence our position is unique geographically, since Canada stands directly between the two power giants of the world, but otherwise it is common to all Western nations. Without exception they, too, are dependent on American power and yet maintain their independence, economic and political.

Cause of Crisis

On the other hand, the fact of our economic dependence is indeed unique. The United States has invested more money in Canada than in any other nation, it sells more goods here than anywhere else, it buys the bulk of our exports and its enormous favorable balance in this business is the sole cause of our recurring dollar crisis.

In all other markets Canada sells more than it buys. In the American market it buys more than it sells and pays the deficit by importing American capital. Even a relatively small withdrawal of this capital precipitated the crisis of last June. A small reversal of the trend in the last three months cured the crisis—temporarily. Canada's stability rides on an exceedingly thin line.

Some Canadians seem to believe that American investment here is a liability. In fact, much of it is a tremendous asset. To be sure, the cost of paying interest on it—the so-called "invisible" factors in our overall trade deficit—is large and onerous, especially when we also carry a heavy deficit on visible commodity trade. Yet a moment's thought will show that without foreign investment, mainly American, we could not have achieved anything like our present high standard of living. Without it we would still be a poor primitive society.

Loss of Talent

Some Canadians seem to believe that American investment here is a liability. In fact, much of it is a tremendous asset. To be sure, the cost of paying interest on it—the so-called "invisible" factors in our overall trade deficit—is large and onerous, especially when we also carry a heavy deficit on visible commodity trade. Yet a moment's thought will show that without foreign investment, mainly American, we could not have achieved anything like our present high standard of living. Without it we would still be a poor primitive society.

Too Little Capital

Hence the third fact is that we have always needed foreign investment and will need it for decades to come if the Canadian economy is to grow adequately and prevent a fall in living standards, for the simple reason that we do not have enough capital of our own.

If that is an obvious mathematical fact, decided in advance by the nature of our economy, it raises grave issues of national policy which we must decide for ourselves. Our decisions up to now have unnecessarily worsened our problems.

To begin with, we have borrowed to pay for too many of the wrong things, too few of the right ones.

If, for example, a Canadian business concern borrows in the United States it must be sure that it can pay the interest on the loan and repay the capital in American money at a certain date or it will grow broke. It manages its affairs accordingly under the iron discipline of debt and profit, increasing its production to carry its costs. If its calculations prove sound it has not impoverished but enriched the nation by creating a new productive asset.

No Earning Power

Unfortunately a large part of Canada's foreign borrowings cannot support themselves by such earnings. To take another simple instance, if a provincial or municipal government borrows foreign money (as even the federal government has lately done), it does not usually create any means of repayment.

Its expenditures on social improvements may be highly desirable but they produce no direct dividends. A hospital or a park, let us say, is needed somewhere and pays social profits but it is no help in carrying the burden of our foreign trade deficit.

Still more burdensome is our prodigal use of foreign loans not to create business or social assets of any kind but only to pay our housekeeping bills. For the last decade we have borrowed abroad on a massive scale and spent the money on consumer goods or services, as a householder might mortgage his home to buy groceries.

Emotion Decisive

However we may control our economy in a legal sense, we are rapidly selling it to foreigners. They own much of it already and are buying more of it every day because we are eager to sell it in individual pieces while always deplored the total sale; also because foreigners will take investment risks in our country that we will not take ourselves. And once we alienate the basic control of our economy political control of our own destiny will follow, however it may be temporarily disguised.

To encourage Canadian investment in Canadian resources by sensible tax and other policies; to consider Continued on Page 9

DANGEROUS DRIVING

Seaman Guilty In Fatal Crash

Able Seaman Frederick William Fraser Putnam, 1958, Hampshire Empey, 23, of HMCSshire, Victoria, was in the wrong lane when the vehicles collided.

George Gregory, defending Empey, said the evidence showed that, even if his car had strayed into the wrong lane, he was not driving with "wanton and reckless disregard for the lives of others".

Mr. Justice Craig Munro, in his summing-up, said the jury could reduce the charge to one of dangerous driving if they wished.

Mr. Miller, Cochran, of Duncan, who had been driving behind Empey's car, said it was "a couple of feet" over the line dividing the lanes and did not seem to be going faster than 50 miles an hour.

Crown prosecutor in the case was William McIntyre.

HUTCHISON

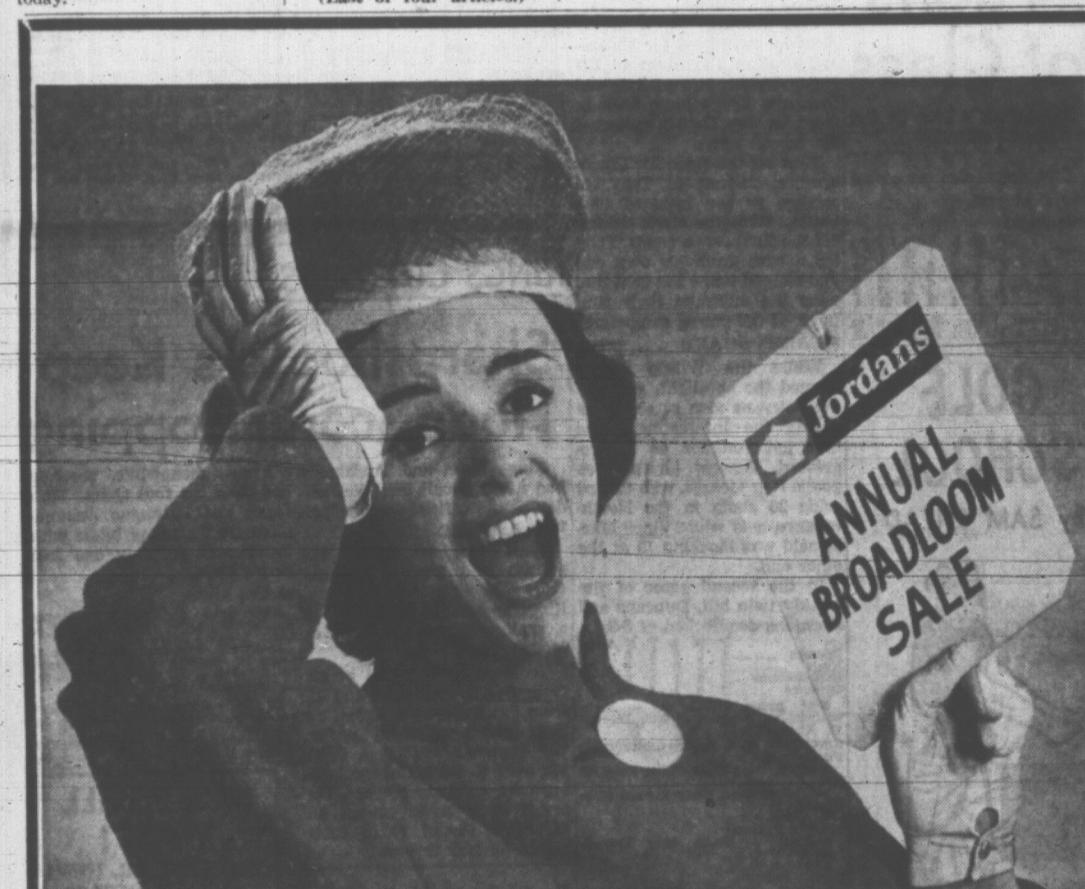

Continued from Page 8 whether we should enforce a minimum of Canadian representation on all company directorates as some countries do; to insist that foreign companies allow Canadians to buy their stock; above all, to make sure that our economy is developed as we and not foreigners decide these are some of the immediate problems that Canadians must compel their government and legislature to face with much more than emotion.

But in the end emotion will be decisive, as in all human events. Is our national emotion, our resolve to be Canadians, strong enough to make us deal at last with the assets and liabilities of foreign investment as only one part of a much larger problem, the problem of Canada's permanent survival? The answer will come from the people. It certainly has not come yet from their bewildered politicians.

NEW MINIMUM WAGE FOR PROVINCE DUE

A new minimum hourly wage rate for B.C. will be established before the end of the year.

The provincial labor department's board of industrial relations is currently studying submissions from trade unions and industry.

The B.C. Federation of Labor has asked for a province-wide minimum of $1.25 an hour for all jobs.

At present minimum wage orders issued by the industrial relations board vary considerably according to occupations.

Lowest rate is 60 cents in some manufacturing industries.

Mr. Justice Craig Munro, in his summing-up, said the jury could reduce the charge to one of dangerous driving if they wished.

Mr. Miller, Cochran, of Duncan, who had been driving behind Empey's car, said it was "a couple of feet" over the line dividing the lanes and did not seem to be going faster than 50 miles an hour.

Crown prosecutor in the case was William McIntyre.

He will be sentenced Friday at 10:30 a.m.

The charge against AB Empey was one of criminal negligence causing a collision and the death from injuries of Mrs. Gladys Dobbie, 48, of Victoria.

After deliberating the verdict for nearly three hours, the 12-man jury reduced the charge by finding him guilty of dangerous driving—a lesser offence.

The accident occurred last Victoria Day on the Malahat Drive section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Main issue in the trial was whether AB Empey's car, or a station wagon driven by Norman

LOOKS AT SPORTS

The thing about Edward Dorohoy that makes him such a delight for journalists is his ability to cover so much ground in a concentrated time.

You know how important this can be to the typewriter set. They must apportion their days carefully; so much time in counting money; so many minutes for sipping cool beverages in the shade of a warm blonde; so many autographs, etc.

It was pleasing to find this week that Mr. Dorohoy hasn't lost his powers of communication. There he was outside his Oak Bay Villa, nattily attired in blue slacks, red shirt, and freshly-mown crop of brown hair.

He clung to the handle of a power mower and resolutely directed it with that jut-jawed determination I am sure he would use even if he was addressing the local PTA on child beatings.

There is nothing one-dimensional about Ed Dorohoy. He can be fiery and demanding in hockey, the job he knows best. Or he can be glacially calm and understanding doing something he likes even more—talking to his two little girls. Few are quicker with the quip, more perceptive or analytical about all aspects of hockey.

Five months have passed since he put his right ankle on the operating table for the fifth time in 18 months. Some people had believed that it had been surgically spliced so often, Eddie would never again use it to drive goalies out of their hair.

"It's good, real good," he said. "Doesn't look any more. I've been working out with the (Vancouver) Canucks ever since training camp opened. Another month, maybe six weeks it'll be like new."

"I knew it was going to be fine when they took the cast off. The doc had crutches ready for me. But I started walking without them. That fooled him. And made me feel good."

"Only problem now is the calf in my right leg. The muscle became a little soft and the leg tends to tire. That's because I'm a toe skater. But look—he rapped it with the side of his hand—it's toughening up."

What the Hull's Another $200???

Has he signed with the Canucks? "Practically," he said. "We've agreed on most things. I just want a clause in there that makes me free to make a deal for myself if I can't make it with them. I'm not too worried."

When the Rangers were here Muzz (Patrick, general manager of the New York team which has a working agreement with Vancouver) told me he would have a job for me if I couldn't play. Makes you feel good when you know people feel that way about you. But what kind of job? Muzz didn't say. Scout, maybe. They don't have one in Alberta. Or coaching one of their junior clubs.

I know he'll keep his word. But I have to think of my family. I have to know what he has in mind. If that's what I want to do, okay. If it's not the release clause protects me."

As usual he wasn't barren of opinions about the Frank Mahovlich "deal": some of the weird "trades" in the Western League, and the future of junior hockey here.

On Mahovlich: "How could Toronto have won by selling Mahovlich to Chicago for $1,000,000? They don't need the money. They're sold out for years. And if the Leafs had finished worse than first without him—even if they had finished second—can't you hear the screams and ticket cancellations?"

When I read the deal was hatched in a Toronto hotel room, that told me the story. You don't make million-dollar deals with a glass in your hand at a smoke-filled party.

I liked Bobby Hull's statement when he heard Chicago was ready to spend that much for Mahovlich—they're ready to spend a million bucks but I had to argue like hell for another $200."

They Don't Play Soccer at 7 A.M.

On the WHL: "I haven't seen the teams but we (Vancouver) had a big jump in condition. Working with the Rangers helped; you always try to show the big guys you can go with them. Winning the first few means a lot. Gives you a cushion when the others start to catch up."

"Los Angeles"? Well, they lost Panagakos and Goyer. So they have one centre—Stan Maxwell. They're going for names—Leo Labine and Fleming Mackell. You can't say that club is good or bad on one game. But they didn't impress me."

Spokane is about the same. They're going to miss that kid, Ed Johnston in goal. He doesn't look like much—but he keeps the pick out. Year before last he didn't look like much with Hull-Ottawa but he scored 10 shutouts. You can't laugh that off."

On junior hockey here: "They talk about going all the way to the Memorial Cup. When do these kids practice? At 7 a.m. My brother Ollie's kid in New Westminster goes to the rink at 5 a.m. You look at the players who came out of B.C. Tommy McVie, Rink Rat, Dave Woodley, Rink Rat. Kids who, would do anything—scrape the ice, anything—just to get ice time."

He looked out his living room window. A group of boys, 10 to 14, chased a soccer ball.

Ten provinces in Canada and this is the only one where there is no winter. In the others winter is five-six months. I could take those kids out there, give them chalk talks, pep talks and then take them to a rink.

They would put their skates on and then I'd say, "get your sticks." And you know what they would say to me: "Stick? What's a stick?"

Sticks and Stones . . . And Montreal Boys

By THE CANADIAN PRESS. Fleming, a Montreal resident, "sticks and stones may break my bones," chant little children, Hawks, and Tremblay, a Montrealer, but you can't stop those real residents playing for Montreal-spirited Montreal boys real Canadians, to bash from trying to find out for each other with their sticks themselves.

So now President Clarence Campbell has $200 worth of at hand.

Campbell is known to look with deep disfavor on any use of sticks and a head full of thread; Reg Fleming has a sore arm, and all three have an appointment for a talk in Campbell's office in Montreal Saturday.

Tremblay and Fleming could be suspended, or fined even more than the automatic $100 each they were levied along with match penalties. Or they could get both.

The most recent precedent would indicate a suspension, or at least a partial one that would keep the two players from meeting under NHL auspices again this season. However, the most recent precedent was considerably more serious.

In the 1953-54 season Montreal's Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion nearly ended the career of Ron Murphy, then with

New York and now with Chicago, by smashing him with his stick.

Murphy was just enough out of position so that Geoffrion's stick shattered his jaw instead of his skull. Both players were suspended from all New York-Montreal games for the rest of the season, a suspension that meant little to Murphy—he spent most of the winter in hospital away—but crippled Geoffrion's attempts to win the NHL scoring championship.

Murphy had a few words to say after watching Fleming slice the 23-year-old Tremblay for 15 stitches Tuesday.

"Every time two players start swinging sticks, it's vicious," he said. "After the first swing you go crazy. All you can think about is trying to protect yourself, and the only way you can do it is to get the other guy."

"When you start swinging there's no place to run."

That is what the 26-year-old Tremblay also said in his own defense after the game: "I swung to protect myself."

Fleming and Canadiens coach

Tee Blake exchanged vile opinions of each other after the game in the lobby of Chicago Stadium and Fleming was all set for an alley brawl but Blake refused to fight and taunted Fleming with "go get your stick."

Referee Frank Udvari said he didn't know a fight was on until he heard the crowd roar and turned around to see the sticks whizzing. He imposed the match penalties with their automatic $100 fines, which is as far as his jurisdiction goes.

... DRASIC PENALTIES FROM CAMPBELL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Geoffrion, a Montreal resident, was released from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League. He scored three goals and three assists with the Hornets this season.

Campbell had a 2-1 edge on the visiting Seals after the first period, then collapsed under a second-period San Francisco attack.

The third period produced most of the excitement at Los Angeles.

The Blades were ahead 2-1 going into the period, but a minute later Orv Tesser tied it up.

Los Angeles made it 3-2 well into the period on a goal by Bill Burega.

For the final assault Portland pulled goalie Don Head to pick up another attacker. The plan went sour as Bob Solinger of the Blades coasted in on an empty net at 19:25 to make the score 4-2.

Still persisting, Bill Saunders of the Bakersfield jammed the puck behind Los Angeles goalie Jack McCrory to finish the scoring.

BIG SOCCER WEEKEND

Gorge Dealings Can't Be Called 'Fair Exchange'

Bustlin' Billy Abbott and veteran Ced Robb provide the fire up front, and Larry DeCosta keeps things cool on the last line of defence.

They are three good reasons—in any order you wish—that establish Gorge Hotel as the team to beat this season in the Victoria and District Soccer League.

Gorge's authority will be questioned this Sunday on the Heywood Avenue Park pitch in a match that fits fans regard as the most important one of this young season.

On the opposite side of this debate will be Hourigan's Kickers, who, like Gorge, are unbeaten and untied. Kickers start the questioning at 2.

Last year, Gorge became the first team to sweep the District League's three major trophies, including the league cup.

This time around, the side lost winger Chumby Crabbie to United of the Pacific Coast League. In return, however, the PCSL gave up Robb, DeCosta and Abbott.

If that's not fair exchange, it's robbery—on Gorge's part. Robb performed well with United, Abbott caught on with North Shore and DeCosta had a brief trial with Columbus last season.

Robb has scored eight goals in five games this season, accounting for exactly half of Gorge's total. Ced, of course, has had a lot of help from Abbott, who has managed to score three himself.

CED ROBB

Breaks of Worst Kind for DeCosta

The big story appears to be the return to form of DeCosta. The youthful goalkeeper is bouncing back from two injuries that have kept him out of soccer for the better part of two seasons. In successive seasons, Larry suffered a broken leg and a broken collar bone.

DeCosta gets his big test Sunday. Kickers, with 25 goals in six games, boast the highest-scoring team in the first division.

On other pitches Sunday, Canadian Scottish play Esquoes, Vic West meets Esquimalt and Brodies tackle Heaneys.

But the big debate will be at Heywood, the second-half of what shapes up as a pleasing double-barrelled offering for district fans this weekend. There's big action Saturday at Royal Athletic Park with Wally Milligan's United playing unbeaten Vancouver Firefighters.

Defending champions of the senior circuit, the Firemen share the PCSL lead with Canadians.

CORNER KICKS: Halfback George Wright again looks as a doubtful starter for United this weekend... Milligan is expected to move Dave Stothard back to the half-line and start Dunc McCaig at forward... Former Scottish pro Bill Hamilton won't turn out with United until he settles a little matter of employment... Fullback Bill Hope and centre half Billy Munro are heading for all-star berths judging by the manner in which they have been performing for Gorge... Columbus, big bust in the PCSL to date, is trying to lure high-scoring Bobby Smith from North Shore... Italians would be willing to give up Bill Neuhans, who can play fullback or on the half-line, in exchange.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He will be here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here today and tomorrow

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Victoria today and tomorrow, October 25 and 26.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison said that he himself will conduct the Victoria clinic. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. today and tomorrow at the Hotel Sussex.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We can not help men who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late! Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S., Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's tried everything. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss; and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

"Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither 'mail-order' nor 'cure-all.'

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We can not help men who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late! Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S., Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

OTTAWA (CP) — The founding convention of the Canadian Wildlife Federation here Nov. 2 is considered by Canadian sportsmen to be the most important milestone in the history of Canada's conservation movement.

Twenty-one delegates, representing 750 associations with a total membership in excess of 150,000 outdoor sportsmen, will attend the two-day meeting to ratify a constitution, elect officers and delegate authority to hire an executive director.

The founding convention is the result of action undertaken one year ago at the Resources for Tomorrow conference in Montreal. At that time a unanimous decision of intent to form a national body was expressed by sportsmen delegates.

A five-man working committee under chairman Stan Hodgkiss of Terrace Bay, Ont., president of the Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers, worked out preliminary details during the year.

Mr. Hodgkiss said Wednesday in a press release the major purpose of the organization will be "to promote the cause of conservation throughout Canada. The body will also assist provincial affiliates in working for sound renewable resource management with emphasis on the welfare of wildlife."

He said "many contend that the long-range benefits of the Canadian Wildlife Federation make this occasion comparable to the birth of the national labor or farm movements."

Campaigns to promote "more healthful outdoor activity participation by Canadian adults" will be instituted and "special emphasis" would be placed on encouraging the natural interest of the nation's youth in our wildlife and to "instill in them the principles of good sportsmanship."

In attendance at the convention will be representatives of the National Wildlife Federation, the United States counterpart, giving delegates the benefit of 25 years' experience of operating on a nationwide basis.

The head office of the federation will be established here.

Walter Dinsdale, minister of northern affairs and natural resources, is expected to address the closing dinner Nov. 3.

Quebec Barrier To 'Annexation'

Quebec can be a bastion to protect Canada against a movement of annexation to the United States, Marcel Belanger, a member of the faculty of commerce at Laval University, said here Wednesday.

Mr. Belanger was guest speaker at the first annual academic assembly of Victoria College held in the Gordon Head campus gymnasium, laying the foundations for a new tradition.

He said, as bilingualism and bi-culturalism continue to grow, Canadians can acquire "an enriching participation in one of the great cultures of the western world."

Other parts of Canada expect Quebec to conform to their image, he said, and when it does not, they lapse into a state of indifference.

INDIFFERENCE

"I know there is no ill-will on your part, but there is unfortunately ignorance and indifference among some."

Mr. Belanger said French Canada is to a "fair degree" responsible for its own economic ills. In education it had been content to "carry the torch of culture" while neglecting more practical fields.

But English-speaking Canadians should also examine their conscience and accept a share of responsibility for the crisis which is gripping Quebec.

"It is our attitudes, our way of viewing things which need to be changed much more than the text of the British North America Act," Mr. Belanger said.

MORE PROGRESSIVE

He added that Quebec universities are now taking a more progressive course by training an increasing number of engineers, business administrators, economists and sociologists—and this was a move towards national unity.

French Canada had to develop its educational system and use every possible means to ensure its economic growth in order to be a more desirable partner, and in a better position to make a more effective contribution to development of Canada.

English Canada should modify some of its attitudes in the interests of national unity.

DRAW TOGETHER

"The Canada of tomorrow, my dear young people, will be what your forefathers made it, and what you yourselves will make it."

"Give therefore in concert with all the youth from one ocean to the other, irrespective of ethnic group, all your energies to make it better and to draw closely together the two solitudes of yesteryear."

Dr. W. H. Hickman, principal of Victoria College, speaking from a platform crowded with faculty and council members, said he regretted the passing of the old system under which scholarships and prizes were awarded in person to winning students.

GROWN TOO LARGE

Growth of the college had made it impossible to continue this system.

Dr. Hickman commended 78 winners of scholarships totaling more than $10,000 and 26 who won special prizes. The students were the first to be honored under the new system.

"It is our hope that the don-

WIGWAM INN CONSPIRACY CASE TO JURY FRIDAY

'A Fine Is Not the End of the World'—Gambler

VANCOUVER (CP)—A telescope was used to watch for police boats during a wide-open bootlegging and gambling operation at Wigwam Inn, one of two men charged with bribery and conspiracy testified, Wednesday.

William Foulder Robertson told an Assize Court jury of 11 men and one woman he felt that if the operation were discovered by police, his penalty would be a fine.

"As long as it is a fine it's not the end of the world," he said.

Robertson and lawyer Rock-mill (Rocky) Myers, 30, are both accused have denied the charge.

Summing up by counsel began today and the case is expected to go to the jury Friday.

Comox Hospital Funds in Budget

COURTENAY — Health Minister Eric Martin this week assured a meeting of St. Joseph's Hospital trustees that government money has been budgeted for a new Comox hospital.

He would not commit himself as to when approval of construction estimates could be expected from Victoria.

Mayor W. C. Moore, hospital board chairman, said the minister explained a delay in approval of the application made six months ago was due to an excessively heavy administrative load in his department.

Mayor Moore said his board still hoped approval would be received and working drawings completed in time for a start on construction next May.

Saturna Organizes

SATURNIA ISLAND — Residents of this gulf island have decided to form a ratepayers' association to further the needs of the community.

Membership will include Victorians who have property on Saturna.

The association's first meeting will be held in the community hall Nov. 10, starting at 8 p.m.

The agenda will include a proposal for the formation of a volunteer fire-fighting unit and the establishment of a sports field and park.

Discuss Land Lease

DUNCAN — A pow-wow to look into the possibility of leasing Indian lands for light-industrial purpose, took place Tuesday between city council and the Cowichan Indian Band Council.

The land under discussion is situated between the shopping plaza on Trunk Road and Cowichan River.

Chief Mike Underwood said his council could not make any decision to lease the property until the matter was discussed with Indian families who have a stake in the land.

4-H Club Contest

DUNCAN — Sheila Moir won the senior public speaking contest of the Cowichan Jersey 4-H Club held in the Cowichan Agricultural Society board room Monday.

The junior event was won by Lorraine Jameson.

The winners will enter the district eliminations next month in competition with Cobble Hill 4-H members.

The Vancouver Island finals will be held in Victoria November 26.

Comedy on Stage

DUNCAN — The comedy "Mr. Pim Passes By" will be presented tonight, Friday and Saturday by Duncan Little Theatre Guild in the Duncan Elementary School gymnasium, starting at 8 p.m.

The cast includes Osric Murrell as Mr. Pim, Irene Robertson as Olive Mardon, Digby Smith as George Mardon, Pam Smith as Dinah, Chris Long as Brian Strange, Ruth Murrell as Lady Mardon, and Mrs. DeLeeuw as the maid.

Near Completion

CUMBERLAND — A new building for branch 28, Royal Canadian Legion, is under construction here and may be completed in time for Remembrance Day.

It will replace the old legion hall which was destroyed by fire last April.

Plan Approved

CAMPBELL RIVER — Village commission has approved in principle the design presented by the Historical Society for the new museum to be erected on Tye Plaza.

It will be a one-storey structure with a flat roof except for a portion which will rise to form a teepee over the building. This will permit display of totem poles within the museum.

The building will have a total area of 2,500 square feet.

Council will now explore methods of financing construction.

Ceremony Tonight

CAMPBELL RIVER — A new slate of officers will be elected and installed at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tonight at Painter's Lodge.

Installing officer and guest speaker will be Don Culliffe of Nanaimo, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

VETERAN STEAM LOCOMOTIVE CENTREPIECE

Logging Museum Opened to Public

LADYSMITH — This community this week got a head start in developing a unique park in British Columbia when Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. opened an outdoor museum and arboretum dedicated to the preservation of early day logging equipment.

The opening of the museum parkland coincides with National Forest Products Week which is being observed throughout Canada.

It is situated on company property alongside the main highway and is expected to become a major attraction with time.

FAST DISAPPEARING

Plans call for the exhibition of all types of old-time logging equipment — equipment which is now fast disappearing in British Columbia.

Centre piece of the museum at the present time is a steam locomotive, No. 11, which was the last used on the Comox Line between Nanaimo Lakes and Ladysmith.

In her career, Locie No. 11 hauled 14 billion board feet of logs.

ON STANDBY

She finished full-time service Dec. 18, 1960, and was relegated to standby service when a diesel locie took over. She weighs 144,000 pounds.

Locomotive crewmen involved in the last run included Andy Magrone, Bert Foster, Jimmie Dowie, Jimmy Dickie and John Dick.

Another locomotive, the No. 12 Shay, also is placed permanently in the museum along with a log yarding machine. She was built in 1927 at Lima,

Professors Knock Blockade, UBC Students Cheer, Jeer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five professors at University of B.C. unanimously condemned recent United States action against Cuba at an "anti-war" rally here Wednesday.

A student bloc of thousands gave them a mixed reception. The rally was called by UBC's Nuclear Disarmament Club and the Students' Christian Movement. The audience packed in for 500 feet along the campus main hall. A smaller group later pushed from behind a platform with placards that read: "Jackie sl—Cuba no. Castrote all commies."

Some students lined the roof of the nearby chemistry building.

A student who spoke at the end of the rally was called a "Nazi," and had to duck three or four paper missiles and an apple core.

"The United States has acted contrary to international law," Dr. James Foukous, head of the pharmacology department told the students. "We cannot oppose free access to Cuba—the same as we cannot condone others to oppose our free access to West Berlin."

Dr. Robert Rowen of the department of philosophy said: "The extremity of the United States reaction to the creation of the missile bases in Cuba is out of all proportion to the military significance of these bases."

Michael Kournosoff, a lecturer in Slavonic studies, was called a Communist as he spoke. He denied the charge.

The satellites would report fires to a computer centre which would evaluate all aspects of the blaze, permitting foresters to push a button and dispatch a missile containing the correct amount and type of extinguisher.

R. C. Howard, a forester with B.C. Forest Products Limited, forecast the day when all wild fires are detected by satellites equipped with television cameras.

ROCKETS TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Earthcircling satellites and missiles as tools in fighting forest fires were foreseen Wednesday at the annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Forestry.

R. C. Howard, a forester with B.C. Forest Products Limited, forecast the day when all wild fires are detected by satellites equipped with television cameras.

The satellites would report fires to a computer centre which would evaluate all aspects of the blaze, permitting foresters to push a button and dispatch a missile containing the correct amount and type of extinguisher.

Mr. Howard said missiles could also be used to carry genetically superior seed which would produce disease-free stands with a high yield potential.

INFLUENCE ON AIRPORT DESIGN

'Copter Next Airport Bus

MONTREAL (CP) — A whole-sale switch by the world's airlines to helicopters for carrying customers from the heart of the city to the airport is forecast in a report of the International Air Transport Association, an association of 92 world airlines centred in Montreal.

The report on airport design says growth of jet travel has accentuated the time passengers spend getting to and from airports and walking through them.

It says: "In extensive urban areas, the helicopter will become increasingly important, particularly for service to airports located at some distance from city centres and between airports serving the same urban complex."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Wednesday night asked the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg to postpone her state visit scheduled next week because of the Cuban crisis.

The study says future airports built in large cities should have the requirements of a helicopter taxi service included in their design.

The report said the distance passengers must walk inside the terminal building should be as short and direct as possible. For covering the distance between the airport door and the airplane door, it suggests moving sidewalks and portable passenger gangways.

'FAST TIME' ENDING AT 2 SUNDAY MORNING

British Columbians can sleep in an extra hour Sunday morning.

That's when the clocks go back an hour and daylight saving time is over.

Official turning back time is 2 a.m. Sunday.

This year the B.C. government extended daylight time by a month. It formerly lasted until the end of September.

Reason for the extension is to conform with Eastern Canada and the Eastern U.S. The move was also requested by a number of delegations to cabinet meetings—including farmers.

ARTHUR MAYSE

If our world is to become no more than a folk-tale told on a distant planet, let it be recorded that the last days were lovely. Autumn—the true, deep fall of the year—has splashed our peninsula with gold of maple and russet of oak; laced with the subtle wines of dogwood turning while second bloom still clings to its boughs.

These are the days when teenagers who swoop down on our place in their noisy cars seem even more concerned with their hedonistic affairs than usual. Sometimes they invite us into their discussions, a polite return for food and drink. I suspect, but mostly we just listen.

And listening, these heart-breaking days, we realize as never before that here indeed is a new generation, schooled and conditioned in attitudes set for them when Hiroshima dissolved in its thunderclap.

These young ones are more fatalistic than we were, and, I think, less bitter. If seems to me they accept the prospect of thermo-nuclear war almost casually.

Admittedly, theirs is the hardihood of the untried and untested. But I detect also a facing of facts, an acceptance of probabilities, which is mature beyond their years.

They hope—but apparently don't really expect—that they'll be allowed to finish growing up.

The boys assume that they may not be around much longer.

Listen a minute, with me! That guy had better quit fussing with his car and get it on the road . . .

One senior says she's going to quit school and get married . . .

"Well, it's a good excuse." "No, it makes sense. That's what we plan to do if it comes. Get married. We might as well have something for ourselves."

"Sure, I guess so. What service would you try for?" "Does it matter?"

All this, as I've indicated, is spoken quite casually, by 18-year-olds who feel President Kennedy has done what he must, but won't buy a distinction between misses on Cuban earth and rocket bases in Turkey.

There isn't a young parliamentarian among them. They aren't patriots as the world has known such when less fatal wars threatened; neither could any my-country-last campus ideologist con them into a demonstration. Already they have their own crisis jokes going, grim quips of the "Which button do I press next?" variety.

Just district boys and girls

WIDE-EYED TWO-YEAR-OLD

who nearly drowned in a pond Wednesday afternoon, Nadine Bombézien, snuggles up to her brother, Marc, four, whose prompt action saved her life. (Times photo)

Boy's Prompt Action Saved Life of Sister

A two-year-old Saanich girl was saved from drowning by the prompt action of her four-year-old brother. Wednesday afternoon.

Little Nadine Bombézien toppled into a water-filled irrigation ditch while playing with friends at about noon Wednesday.

Her brother, Marc, rushed to save her, but found he could not reach her.

He then ran to house of Mrs. B. E. Hall, 716 Beaver Lake Road, on whose property they had been playing with the Hall children, Raymond, five, and Fraser, two.

Mrs. Hall rushed to the ditch where she found Nadine face down in the muddy water.

"She must have been moving her little arms and legs to keep afloat," she said.

"When I pulled her out I saw her face was kind of purple. Her eyes were open too, which gave me quite a scare," she added.

She said she tried to give the child mouth-to-mouth respiration but found her teeth were tightly clenched. She rolled her on to her stomach and gave another form of artificial respiration.

Mrs. Hall said it "seemed ages" before the child began to wake up.

"When she was breathing again I sent Marc home to get his mummy," she said.

Parents of the boy and girl are Mr. and Mrs. N. Bombézien, 765 Beaver Lake.

Mrs. Hall said she had been unaware the children were playing near the ditch. "We are going to have it fenced off," she said.

"EXPRESSES SUPPORT

The convention expressed its support to the International Woodworkers of America, promising necessary action to preserve workers' rights now under attack in a pending lawsuit by the corporation over a Somas mill dispute.

It resolved also to have the federation executive council investigate the facts of the case and tell the public of the corporation's anti-labor policies.

This was the second emergency resolution of the convention, the first having dealt with the Cuban crisis.

Its preamble stated MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. attempted to intimidate employees by a threat of prosecution of the Alberni Local 185, its officers and members.

Three of the Brothers Isherwood will run the spread.

The fourth, Foster Isherwood, Victoria Liberal candidate in the last federal election, will be a partner, but will stay in his Victoria law office most of the year.

Mr. Isherwood said today the three brothers who will go up there once a year," said Foster.

He said the brothers have applied for a lease on 11,500 acres between the Osborne and Doig Rivers about 65 miles northeast of Fort St. John.

They are applying for a second lease on 8,500 acres in the Townsend area near the Alaska Highway.

One block of land will be for wheat farming; the other for grazing.

Joe Isherwood is already at Port St. John.

"This is really good land, and the others are very excited about it," said Foster.

He said, although he is a partner in the project, he does not intend to leave Victoria, not to give up his political connections.

He came within 200 votes of winning the Victoria seat in Parliament in the June 18 election.

Stanley J. Bullivant, 20, no fixed address, under the name R. Beaumont, procured a hobby set, razor set and first aid kit from the store Wednesday.

He was remanded to Friday morning for sentence. An order of restitution was made.

More than 260 cadets from Royal Roads and HMCS Venture donated blood to the Canadian Red Cross Society Wednesday, Mrs. V. A. Thistle, secretary, reported.

Another clinic was being held today in the old gymnasium at HMCS Naden.

Death Strikes Widow On Way to Prayers

Lived Four Hours After Road Mishap

An elderly Victoria woman was fatally injured when in collision with a car while on her way to a prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Jane Fleming, 72, 1421 Fernwood, was crossing Fernwood at Gladstone on her way to Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1900 Fernwood, at about 7:30 p.m. when she was involved in an accident with a car driven by John G. Koning, 2315 Fernwood.

She died in Royal Jubilee Hospital at about 11 p.m. after being admitted with multiple head injuries. Hospital officials believe she died from the effects of shock.

Police are still investigating and the coroner has indicated there will be an inquest, the date to be set later.

ALMOST ACROSS

It is believed Mrs. Fleming had almost crossed over the intersection when the accident occurred. She was thrown 27 feet by the impact, police said.

Before she died she said she had seen the car coming and didn't think it was going to stop. She said she made a quick dash to the curb before the impact.

Witnesses said the intersection, at the crest of a hill, is well lighted and the crosswalk there is well marked.

Mrs. Fleming was taken to hospital with a cut over the left eye and other abrasions to the head. She told officers she thought her back was broken.

SOLE OCCUPANT

Mr. Koning was the sole occupant of the car involved in the accident.

Mrs. Fleming, who lived alone, was predeceased by her husband by about five years.

She leaves two sons, Robert, of 2490 Sinclair in Victoria, and Rev. Bruce, rector of the Church of the Nazarene in Port Alberni, and a daughter, Mrs. Len Teows, a missionary in Southern Rhodesia. She also leaves nine grandchildren.

Born in Ireland, near Belfast, she came to Canada in 1923 where she pioneered near Edmonton before coming to Victoria in 1946.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros. by Rev. A. C. Hamill after the inquest. Interment will follow in Royal Oak.

Optimists Ready To Mark Bicycles With Safety Tape

Victoria Evening Optimist Club will tape 4,000-4,500 bicycles with scotchlite reflective sheeting in conjunction with Bicycle Safety Week, Oct. 29-November 4.

The annual project will cover 37 public and private schools in Victoria, Saanich and Esquimalt. Oak Bay Optimists will apply another 1,500 strips in their district.

Vancouver To Have New Daily

Plans for a new Vancouver daily newspaper to be published within eight months to one year were revealed today by W. Val Warren, Vancouver advertising man, after a meeting here with local businessmen and investment advisers.

Mr. Warren said the paper —would be a complete daily paper in the evening field. He added that a qualified staff nucleus from all parts of Canada had already been assembled.

Capital required for the venture would be anywhere from $8,000,000 to $15,000,000, depending on the type of equipment used, on which a final decision is expected within 60 days.

The new company, Vancouver Publishing Ltd., was incorporated last week with the following directors:

Mr. Warren, president and publisher; R. W. Thacker, Vancouver accountant, comptroller; and H. Freeman, Vancouver lawyer, director. Mr. Warren, president of Val Warren Agencies Ltd., is also publisher of the Metro Times, Vancouver shopping giveaway paper.

Mr. Warren said the new paper would be non-partisan and not associated with any syndicate of newspapers.

Russ St. Eloi
first of his kind

Plumber New Head Of B.C. Fed

B.C. Federation of Labor today elected its first building trades unionist to presidency of the 96,000-member organization.

He is J. R. "Russ" St. Eloi, 38, named at the federation's seventh annual convention here by 334 delegates to replace retiring president Robert Simcock.

The new president, who will serve a one-year term, is business agent for Local 170 of the plumbers' union in Vancouver, and is also president of the Vancouver and New Westminster Building Trades Council.

He has been an officer of BCFL four years, the last year as second vice-president.

CRITICAL TIME

The election is significant because the constructional time when provincial labor trades particularly face a critical situation is putting them to the test.

The left-wing element put up an opposing candidate, Orville Bratten, of the pulp and sulphite workers' union, who lost 171-71 in balloting.

Jack Moore, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, was returned as first vice-president by acclamation, and Ray Hayes, retail, wholesale clerks, was elected second vice-president, a rise from third VP.

L. J. Wisheart, New Westminster fire fighters' union, was elected third vice-president.

Victorian E. T. Staley, executive secretary of Provincial Council of Carpenters, was named fourth vice-president.

E. P. O'Neal was re-elected to his fifth term as secretary-treasurer—each term by acclamation.

The problem is of concern to all trade unions, whose rights are at stake, the resolution said.

"It is not just a fight between one company and one union," IWA district president Jack Moore said. "I think there is much more at stake. It is going to involve the whole of organized labor."

Mr. Moore, a vice-president of the federation, accused the firm of practices "far worse" than some used in the 1930s.

CALLED LOCKOUT

He described the Port Alberni dispute, in which the firm has an injunction against picketing what it calls an illegal strike, as a lockout when "men in effect were sent home."

When the men objected, officers of the firm said, "We'll run this company," Mr. Moore said.

World Traveller Enticed to City By Group of 'Old China Hands'

By PAT DUFOUR

After five trips around the world Miss Dorice Cuthbertson decided to make her home in Victoria — this year. Reasons are "people here are the friendliest I've seen anywhere and include a lot of old China hands."

These are the many friends she made during her 30 years' stay in the Far East.

Looking for adventure, Miss Cuthbertson left London, England in 1932 to live in Shanghai where she was to work for the Jardine Matheson Company, known in the Far East as the "princely hong" — because of its far-reaching interests in shipping, importing, exporting, air lines and other fields.

Adventures came thick and fast. Miss Cuthbertson was in Shanghai through the wars of 1932 and 1937 and spent 4½ years as a prisoner-of-war. In the Stanley Camp at Hong Kong during the Second World War. Of these years, her only comment is, "they were really rather grim and there's no point in talking of something that's over and done with."

For added excitement, there was always a typhoon to lift life out of the every day rut. In fact, Miss Cuthbertson recalls typhoons that lifted rugs and furniture out of homes and carried them down the hill-sides.

"We would stay up all night mopping up the rain after the wind had sucked all the panes of glass out of the windows."

But it isn't such disasters that have left the deepest imprint on this traveller's memory. It's the graciousness of the Chinese and the steeped-in-history culture of that ancient people.

She tells of her servants who stayed with her for 20 years, especially Lee Cheong who was decorated by the British after the last war.

"He received the MBE at Government House for his part in getting parcels to the prisoners of war and other services. He is a man who can neither read or write and yet he has a philosophy that most of us can envy."

DUBBED 'CUBBIE'

The Chinese children came to look upon her as their favorite and unable to pronounce Cuthbertson, dubbed her "Cubbie," a name she still remembers with affection.

After serving as executive secretary to nine different "taipans" (managing directors), Mrs. Cuthbertson retired in 1957 and spent eight months travelling across the world, trying to make up her mind whether to settle in Canada, Australia or Majorca.

Retirement was not for long. In 1958 she was asked by the Tung family to act as liaison officer for the Dao Heng Bank which they owned in Hong Kong.

Unable to resist, Miss Cuthbertson agreed and for "three wonderful years" handled all their overseas correspondence and acted as their liaison with the British bank in Hong Kong.

Even now, although she "really has retired for good," Miss Cuthbertson cannot forget her friends in the Far East — or their ways.

DRUMS TALK

She tells of the Chinese peddlers who beat a drum in the street and by the inflection let their hearers know exactly what kind of produce they are selling.

She fingers a piece of delicately carved amber and relates how mandarins walk along, all the while fondling such a piece. Other Chinese substitute a polished walnut for the same purpose.

The legend is recalled of a war lord who, centuries ago, used eight horses to get him to his destination, whereby Chinese explain the significance of the eight horses that appear, time and time again, in their designs.

And, in her Craigdarroch Road home, can be seen evidence that she shares the Chinese belief that monkeys are "awfully good luck." A string of tail-jointed bronze monkeys from Korea grin at you from the hall.

But most of all, it's the memories of her Chinese friends that fill her thoughts. And it would appear that they, too, remember.

On her birthday this summer, one of her most appreciated gifts was a bouquet of red roses, sent by her former employers, the Tung family.

Twa-Marcotte Wedding In Salt Spring Island Church

Our Lady of Grace Church at Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was decorated with autumn flowers for the wedding of Caroline Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Marcotte, and Robert John Twa, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Twa, all of Salt Spring Island.

Rev. William Mudge officiated. Assisting at the service were altar boys Grant and John Marcotte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a balaclava-length gown of white lace over satin. The fitted bodice featured lily point sleeves and V-neckline with lace yoke. A cluster of white flowers held her finger-tip veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink rosebuds. Bridesmaids wore identically styled gowns and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and purple asters. Miss Darlene Marcotte was gowned in white nylon sheer patterned with primrose yellow and Miss Donna Marcotte wore goldenrod yellow.

Linda Marcotte, young sister of the bride, was flower girl in a white frock. She carried a white nosegay.

Best man was Adelard Mar-

German Measles Virus Found by Researchers

BOSTON (AP)—Two American medical research teams have independently discovered the long-sought German measles virus. The disease can cause deafness, blindness and heart disease in developing infants.

An announcement by the Harvard school of public health Wednesday said the discoveries pave the way for a vaccine to control the disease. They also make possible for the first time accurate diagnosis of German measles infection.

The discoverers are scientists at the Harvard school of public health and the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Washington.

STEINBECK
chronicler of injustice

Novelist Wins Nobel

STOCKHOLM (AP) — John Steinbeck, best-selling American novelist for nearly 30 years and author of The Grapes of Wrath, today won the 1962 Nobel Prize for literature.

The 60-year-old chronicler of social injustice in the United States was the sixth American to win the rich literary prize, amounting this year to 257,249 Swedish crowns, or $49,656. Steinbeck was given the prize "for his art at once and the same time realistic and imaginative writings, distinguished as they are by a sympathetic humor and a social perception," according to the citation by the awarding body.

Eric Joe, past president of Chinatown Lions Club, was responsible for the gold panning. As a resident engineer for the parks branch at Barkerville, he bought $120 worth of gold particles from prospectors there and hid them in the sand-filled vials.

Mrs. Dorothea Mar sold tickets for a draw on a blonde "Yum-Yum doll" with hand-made brocade Chinese dress.

There was a rich variety of delicatessen stalls stocked with assorted Chinese cookies and sesame seed wafers. Curio stalls carried pot-bellied Buddha statues, chop sticks and miniature clay teapots with cups and tray.

Lions Club officials said they were delighted with the public response to the festival, aimed at raising money for local charities.

'Showdown' Threatened On Cleopatra

NEW YORK (AP) — Darryl F. Zanuck, president of 20th Century Fox, confirmed Wednesday night that he had removed Joseph L. Mankiewicz as director of the multi-million dollar film, Cleopatra.

Mankiewicz had said earlier in Paris that he had been fired and that Zanuck intended to finish editing the film himself.

Mankiewicz said he plans to fly to New York Saturday and intends "by every means available to regain the usurped right to finish my work," He added "I don't know if there will be a showdown with Zanuck or not."

Said Zanuck in his statement: "In exchange for top compensation and a considerable expense account, Mr. Joseph Mankiewicz has for two years spent his time, talent and $35,000,000 of 20th Century Fox stockholders' money to direct and complete the first cut of the film Cleopatra.

"He has earned a well-deserved rest."

Pageant Festival Highlight

The famous Chinese Lantern Festival, sponsored every year by the Chinatown Lions Club, drew hundreds of people to the Club Sirocco Wednesday.

Highlight of the festival was an historical pageant based on the origin and early life of Victoria's Chinatown district.

But there were numerous other attractions. Many tried their luck at "panning for gold" at a stand where competitors can win a small piece of gold by choosing correctly from an array of sand-filled vials.

Eric Joe, past president of Chinatown Lions Club, was responsible for the gold panning. As a resident engineer for the parks branch at Barkerville, he bought $120 worth of gold particles from prospectors there and hid them in the sand-filled vials.

CONDUCTOR DECEPTIVELY NONCHALANT

Army Band 'Bright and Brilliant'

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Wednesday night's concert by the Royal Canadian Engineers' Band of Camp Chilliwack at the Royal Theatre was a bright and brilliant affair.

Paralleling the visual effect of scarlet and gold uniforms and music stands emblazoned with the regimental colors and crest, was the musical effect of virtuosic instrumentalists playing in ensemble and solo numbers.

Tall, dynamic Lieut. Leonard Camplin, the band's musical director, conducts with firm precision and alert musicianship deceptively cloaked in an easy, nonchalant manner.

All aspects of the typical concert band were fully realized in Sibelius' "Finlandia." This was conceived and performed with true nobility and presented in rich, glowing tones that translated the orchestral score with utmost satisfaction.

PLAYERS VERSATILE

The band's versatility and solo quality of its individual players was reflected again and again in such pieces as the Spanish-American flavored "Beguine Festival," a ballet potpourri, a brilliant clarinet solo by Band Sgt. J. H. Moonen, and a saxophone solo played with great artistry by band Sgt. C. H. Young.

Virtuoso mastery of their instruments was also displayed by a trio of trumpets, band staff Sgt. F. Langton, band Sgt. C. R. Reardon and band Sgt. S. F. Dunning, and by xylophone duettists, band staff Sgt. T. J. Hardin and band Sgt. A. C. Shaw.

Guest conductor was Capt. James M. Gayfer, director of the music school at HMCS Naden. Capt. Gayfer conducted two of his own compositions.

Mrs. Stella Neil, 3106 Washington, admitted stealing a sweater valued at $10.95 from Spencer's Stores Ltd., 1420 Douglas, Oct. 11.

"I rather fear that there is a tendency on the part of some people to feel that shoplifting is not a form of stealing," Magistrate William Ostler said in pronouncing sentence on Mrs. Neil. "Shoplifting and stealing are the same thing," he said.

Two elderly women were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital following an accident at Pandora and Broad about 10:30 Wednesday. They suffered bruises.

NO CAUSE FOR 'SERIOUS CONCERN'

OTTAWA (CP) — Special commissioners investigating irregularities in two constituencies in the June 18 general election have recommended that no court action be taken.

The reports of investigations into the Toronto Trinity and Vancouver Centre election preparations have been tabled in the Commons.

In Vancouver Centre, the complaint was that large numbers of names were added to the voters' lists during revision. Six RCMP investigators found that while there were irregularities they were mainly clerical errors.

Commissioner Lloyd G. McKenzie of Victoria said the irregularities were "not of the kind to excite serious concern or to justify any recommendation for criminal prosecution."

Last week hundreds of Windsor auto workers made the 250-mile journey to Toronto to petition the Ontario government for legislation to control what they called "runaway industry." Some think the industry's problems could be solved by the manufacture in Canada of automatic transmissions, now all imported duty-free from the United States under a federal order-in-council which expires Oct. 31.

Two suggestions receiving heavy support here have been that the federal government encourage private manufacturers of the units by eliminating the duty-free provision; or that a crown corporation be set up to manufacture the units in Canada.

In Ottawa a government source said the order-in-council probably would be renewed Oct. 31, perhaps with a warning that it would be extended only to a set date. This would encourage Canadian companies to prepare to build automatic transmissions. The source did not consider likely any move to cut off the supply abruptly or to require Canadians to pay the extra cost of the regular 25-per-cent import duty before any plans are made for Canadian manufacture.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win $100 or even $1,000? Ask Andy! He'll answer your questions.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second ques-

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Luis Kame, age 8, of Hayden, Arizona, for his question:

What Makes an Echo?

You hear an echo when you sit on the head of a pin. In fact and shout in just the air they float around like in a long empty hallway space between them. In fact, "Hello" comes the echoing these gas molecules are the air answer. "Hello" you shout at around us. We can see right through the air and most of the time we forget it is there. "Hello" comes the echoing into each other many times in a second. The slight breeze just a few moments before a mirror should convince you that an excellent disguise can be improvised with cosmetics and burnt cork rather than use a mask which obstructs vision.

And, remembering my own experience on the night of ghosts and hobgoblins, here are several more tips which I hope you and your friends follow the night of Oct. 31.

Be Careful

Make sure that your costumes are flameproof and light-colored enough to be seen easily by drivers. And don't wear anything which might trip you or catch on bushes or fences.

Never carry a sharp instrument which might wound you or someone else. And be sure your friends—particularly the younger ones—aren't carrying candles.

I still remember with a twinge of remorse frightening the daylights out of a much younger merrymaker with a particularly scary caveman outfit. Try to take it easy on our small friends.

Doctors warn that frightening very young children in "halls of horror" can have a bad effect upon them. So leave the small ones behind if you're going through something like that—and don't let them run on the streets after dark.

Centuries Old

Where did Halloween come from? Thousands of teenagers who try on disguises

These midgets are molecules of air. Millions of these tiny particles of floating gas could cause a major traffic jam.

Bounces From Solid Wall

Your voice carries across the room. But if this molecule of traffic jam tunnels down a hallway and meets a solid wall, there is a bounce. The hard wall sets the sound moving back from where it came. It comes back to your ears as an echo.

Sometimes you can get a good echo from a steep cliff. Take 100 giant steps away from the foot of the cliff, turn around and shout "hello." The sound goes down through the water, bounces off the cliff, bounces off the solid floor and comes back in so many seconds. The number of ears in about one second. The seconds tells how far it has travelled.

Apple Strips

Or you can have all your friends try peeling long, thin strips from apples. If the strip is thrown over your left shoulder, it is supposed to shape the first initial of the person you will marry.

Even without a party, I trust you'll try carving a pumpkin as a reminder of the ancient harvest festival. Remember to draw the face first with pencil, then cut off the lid, and carry on from there.

THERMOMETER SKIDS

Ontario Belted By First Snow

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario residents who got a taste of the storm and the Niagara Peninsula was expected to be the scene of locally heavy snow-squalls ahead of the main storm.

The weather office at Toronto issued a special warning of snow and hazardous driving throughout most parts of southern Ontario.

The warning said a storm moving southeast from Michigan would add to the frequency and intensity of snowflurries already occurring over the Great Lakes.

Brief but locally heavy snowfalls in excess of four inches were predicted along the path of the storm and the Niagara Peninsula was expected to be the scene of locally heavy snow-squalls ahead of the main storm.

By tonight the snow should have tapered off to a few flurries except in the "snow belt" near Lake Huron. But strong northerly winds were expected to provide a winter-like night.

Snow fell Wednesday throughout a 50-mile area in the Georgian Bay region, and overnight temperatures throughout central Ontario fell into the low and mid-20s.

SUSPECT HELD IN HUGE U.S. MAIL THEFT

BOSTON (AP) — A U.S. postal official told a federal court Wednesday that electrician Thomas R. Richards, 37, admitted a week ago that he had in his possession $1,000.000 of the $1,500,000 taken in the Aug. 14 mail truck robbery at Plymouth, Mass.

In an affidavit filed in U.S. district court, postal inspector Raymond J. Dunne, said the statement by Richards was made during questioning on Oct. 17.

TOWARD A SOLUTION

Would U.S. Scrap Bases In Turkey?

By MAX FREEDMAN

(Mr. Freedman, correspondent in Washington for The Guardian, is regarded as one of the most authoritative members of the press corps in the U.S. capital. He has made this assessment of the current crisis.)

WASHINGTON—Even while the world anxiously awaits the march of events in the Caribbean area, and studies the possibilities of a clash between Russian and American power, the thinking of the Kennedy administration has turned towards peaceful settlement which may save mankind from nuclear war.

There is no chance at all of this hope being made a foundation for action if the policy of the United States is regarded in Moscow as the product of divided aims, of feeble will, or timid power.

Invasion Promise

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—President Chiang Kai-shek said today the Nationalist Chinese government will launch a military offensive against the Chinese mainland. That for a halt to the quarantining and to the arms buildup in Cuba. The House loudly applauded from all quarters of the Commons when the prime minister said: "We intend to support the U.S. and our other allies in this situation."

The cabinet today had approved measures which the armed forces would have to put into effect if the situation became more serious.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he would not go into detail on what further measures the government was prepared to take if circumstances required. The prime minister commended the proposal of UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant for a halt to the quarantining and to the arms buildup in Cuba. The House loudly applauded from all quarters of the Commons when the prime minister said: "We intend to support the U.S. and our other allies in this situation."

He said this would permit an easing in international tensions over the Cuban crisis and permit the parties in dispute—the U.S., U.S.S.R., and Cuba—to conduct negotiations aimed at a settlement.

Mr. Pearson offered his suggestion at a news conference today after he had sat in on a 40-minute briefing of the situation with the cabinet's defence committee. It is believed the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war that a Canadian opposition leader had been invited by the government to attend such high-level and secret talks.

The opposition leader's UN naval blockade proposal was made by way of what he called a "supplement" to the suggestion outlined in the UN Wednesday by UN acting Secretary-General U Thant.

U Thant asked in letters to both Soviet Premier Khrushchev and U.S. President Kennedy that they end the blockade and arms build-up and start talking.

Mr. Pearson said he felt the proposal was a "weak" one whose major fault was that it was "unbalanced" in terms of enforcement: a withdrawal of the U.S. quarantine was "self-enforcing," but a declared end of the arms build-up by the U.S. naval blockade proposal was

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. navy blockade ship intercepted a Russian tanker in the Atlantic early today but let it proceed through the quarantine ring to Cuba because no prohibited materials were aboard.

The high seas encounter was the first reported since President Kennedy ordered the naval blockade to cut off the flow of Communist missiles and other aggressive weapons to the Fidel Castro regime.

The defense department said that at least 12 other Soviet ships which might be carrying offensive material had turned back, presumably rather than meet the blockade head on.

RADIO CONTACT

Reports from Congressmen and governors attending a state department briefing in New York said the only contact was by radio and that there was no boarding party.

There was no official confirmation of this here. But the defense department announced that the tensely-waited meeting between a Russian and a U.S. ship had occurred without incident.

New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, who was present for the New York briefing, said the Soviet captain answered a radio message from the U.S. ship.

The Soviet captain, according to another Congressman, said his cargo consisted of petroleum. There has been no ban on shipments of this to Cuba.

Hughes also said there was "other information" that made it unnecessary to board the ship. In Washington, there was speculation that the vessel and the nature of its cargo may have been known in advance through intelligence activities.

NO CHANGE

The U.S. blockade around Cuba was firmly in place.

Polish Ship Leads Way

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A highly-qualified U.S. informant said today a Polish freighter is approaching the American naval blockade around Cuba and Soviet Premier Khrushchev may be planning to have this vessel pot up the first Communist challenge to the U.S. Navy.

The informant said that while Communist ships averted a showdown by altering their course Wednesday, another group of Red freighters still maintained their course towards Cuba.

Leading this group is the Polish ship, he said, and on the basis of its present speed and position, it may be confronted by the blockade later today—perhaps in the afternoon.

Of all the Soviet-bloc countries, the U.S. has been operating closest with Poland, providing grain and other assistance on the basis that Poland might eventually be weaned away from the Soviet camp.

'FAST TIME' ENDING AT 2 SUNDAY MORNING

British Columbians can sleep in an extra hour Sunday morning. That's when the clocks go back an hour and daylight saving time is over. Official turning back time is 2 a.m. Sunday. This year the B.C. government extended daylight time by a month. It formerly lasted until the end of September. Reason for the extension is to conform with Eastern Canada and the Eastern U.S. The move was also requested by a number of delegations to cabinet meetings—including farmers.

ARTHUR MAYSE

If our world is to become no more than a folk-tale told on a distant planet, let it be recorded that the last days were lovely. Autumn—the true, deep fall of the year—has splashed our peninsula with gold of maple and russet of oak, laced with the subtle wines of dogwood turning while second bloom still clings to its boughs.

These are the days when teen-agers who swoop down on our place in their noisy cars seem even more concerned with their hedonistic affairs than usual. Sometimes they invite us into their discussions, a polite return for food and drink, I suspect. But mostly we just listen.

And listening, these heartbreakingly beautiful days, we realize as never before that here indeed is a new generation, schooled and conditioned in attitudes set for them when Hiroshima dissolved in its thunderclap.

These young ones are more fatalistic than we were, and, I think, less bitter. If seems to me they accept the prospect of thermo-nuclear war almost casually.

Admittedly, theirs is the hard-hood of the untried and untested. But I detect also a faceting of facts, an acceptance of probabilities, which is mature beyond their years.

They hope—but apparently don't really expect—that they'll be allowed to finish growing up.

The boys assume that they may not be around much longer.

Listen a minute, with me: "That guy had better quit fussing with his car and get it on the road . . ." One senior says she's going to quit school and get married . . .

"Well, it's a good excuse."

"No, it makes sense. That's what we plan to do if it comes. Get married. We might as well have something for ourselves."

"Sure, I guess so. What service would you try for?"

"Does it matter?"

All this, as I've indicated, is spoken quite casually, by 18-year-olds who feel President Kennedy has done what he must, but won't buy a distinction between missiles on Cuban earth and rocket bases in Turkey.

There isn't a young parliamentarian among them. They aren't patriots as the world has known such when less fatal wars threatened; neither could any my-country-last campus ideologist on them into a demonstration. Already they have their own crisis jokes going, grim quips of the "Which button do I press next?" variety.

Death Strikes Widow On Way to Prayers

Lived Four Hours After Road Mishap

An elderly Victoria woman was fatally injured when in collision with a car while on her way to a prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Jane Fleming, 72, 1421 Pembroke, was crossing Fernwood at Gladstone on her way to Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1900 Fernwood, at about 7:30 p.m. when she was involved in an accident with a car driven by John G. Koning, 2315 Fernwood.

She died in Royal Jubilee Hospital at about 11 p.m. after being admitted with multiple head injuries. Hospital officials believe she died from the effects of shock.

Police are still investigating and the coroner has indicated there will be an inquest, the date to be set later.

ALMOST ACROSS

It is believed Mrs. Fleming had almost crossed over the intersection when the accident occurred. She was thrown 27 feet by the impact, police said.

Before she died she said she had seen the car coming and didn't think it was going to stop. She said she made a quick dash to make the last two steps to the curb before the impact.

Witnesses said the intersection, at the crest of a hill, is well lighted, and the crosswalk there is well marked.

Mrs. Fleming was taken to hospital with a cut over the left eye and other abrasions to the head. She told officers she thought her back was broken.

SOLE OCCUPANT

Mr. Koning was the sole occupant of the car involved in the accident.

Mrs. Fleming, who lived alone, was predeceased by her husband by about five years.

She leaves two sons, Robert, of 2490 Sinclair in Victoria, and Rev. Bruce, rector of the Church of the Nazarene in Port Alberni, and daughter, Mrs. Len Teows, a missionary in Southern Rhodesia. She also leaves nine grandchildren.

Born in Ireland, near Belfast, she came to Canada in 1923 where she pioneered near Edmonton before coming to Victoria in 1946.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros. by Rev. A. C. Hamill after the inquest. Interment will follow in Royal Oak.

Vancouver To Have New Daily

Plans for a new Vancouver daily newspaper to be published within eight months to one year were revealed today by W. Val Warren, Vancouver advertising man, after a meeting here with local business men and investment advisers.

Mr. Warren said the paper would be a complete daily paper in the evening field. He added that a qualified staff nucleus from all parts of Canada had already been assembled.

Capital required for the venture would be anywhere from $8,000,000 to $15,000,000, depending on the type of equipment used, on which a final decision is expected within 60 days.

The new company, Vancouver Times Publishing Ltd., was incorporated last week with the following directors:

Mr. Warren, president and publisher; R. W. Thacker, Vancouver accountant, compiler; and H. Freeman, Vancouver lawyer, director. Mr. Warren, president of Val Warren Agencies Ltd., is also publisher of the Metro Times, Vancouver shopping giveaway paper.

Mr. Warren said the new paper would be non-partisan and not associated with any syndicate of newspapers.

Education Minister Praises Former Oak Bay High Students

Education Minister Leslie Peterson presented the Governor-General's Silver Medal for highest marks in provincial grade 12 examinations last June to a 16-year-old Oak Bay High School girl during the school's awards presentations Wednesday.

Eleanor Jane Turner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Turner, 3110 Midland, is a first-year arts student at Victoria College at present.

She received an average mark of 94.75 per cent in the June examinations.

Miss Turner, a former student of Willows and Oak Bay Junior High schools, was editor of the school newspaper, president of the Shakespeare Club, played grass hockey and badminton, and the clarinet in the band, while at the senior high school, among other activities.

Proud Record

"This combination of academic excellence and general achievement indicates the well-rounded citizen and leader, so necessary in our times," Mr. Peterson said when presenting the medal to Miss Turner.

"Jane has achieved a record of which she can be justly proud," he added.

At the same ceremony the minister congratulated 25 first-class students winning remission by the provincial government of half their first-year university fees, and 23 second-class students winning remission of one-third of their fees.

He watched while 24 students from the school were presented over $12,000 in

On Cuba Arms Quarantine

RUSSIA AGREES TO 'FREEZE' U.S. READY TO DISCUSS IT

TOWARD A SOLUTION

Would U.S. Scrap Bases In Turkey?

By MAX FREEDMAN

(Mr. Freedman, correspondent in Washington for The Guardian, is regarded as one of the most authoritative members of the press corps in the U.S. capital. He has made this assessment of the current crisis.)

WASHINGTON—Even while the world anxiously awaits the march of events in the Caribbean area, and studies the possibilities of a clash between Russian and American power, the thinking of the Kennedy administration has turned towards a peaceful settlement which may save mankind from nuclear war.

There is no chance at all of this hope being made a foundation for action if the policy of the United States is regarded in Moscow as the product of divided aims, of feeble will, or timid power.

First essential is that Russian leaders, in this hour of unexampled crisis, must realize that the United States will shrink from no sacrifice and escape from no burden in carrying out, with consistent courage, all the responsibilities involved in the policy of blockade now proclaimed and enforced by President Kennedy. If this fact is fully grasped by the Soviet Union, and if it is clearly understood that no settlement is possible at the price of retreat and dishonor, then it becomes possible, at least to consider the outline of a settlement.

The first point to be made, with the utmost emphasis, is that the Kennedy administration welcomes the efforts of the neutral and smaller countries to enlist the moral authority of Secretary General U Thant in a supreme attempt to use the power of the United Nations to avert an armed clash between the two nuclear giants.

'In Favor of Talk, Provided . . .'

'Let UN Direct Quarantine'

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A United Nations force formed by the navies of non-aligned countries could take over the quarantine of the Cuban-arms build-up from the U.S., Liberal leader Lester Pearson suggested today.

RCAF Placed On Alert—Dief

OTTAWA—(CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today RCAF Air Defence Command has been placed on the same alert status as American interceptors in North American Air Defence Command.

He informed the Commons of precautions the government has taken "at this stage" so that Canada can support the U.S. and its other allies in the current situation.

Other measures include:

1. No long leaves for armed forces personnel at this time.

2. Civilian departments instructed to bring up to date measures which would be required in an emergency.

3. The Emergency Measures Organization—federal, provincial and municipal—told to be on the alert.

SEES MENACE

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Soviet Union has reached out across the Atlantic to challenge the right of free men in the western hemisphere. Soviet missiles and bombers in Cuba posed a "direct and immediate menace" to Canada.

They were also a menace to the West's strategic strength.

The threat was posed not only to North America but to NATO as a whole and to all the free world, which depended on U.S. strategic strength for protection.

"While we must preserve the peace of the world we must be sure at the end of this particular incident that we are not placed in a worse position to defend freedom and peace," he said.

In a parallel address in the House of Lords, Foreign Secretary Earl Home said he expected "endless arguments" over the legality of the American arms blockade.

The cabinet today had approved measures which the armed forces would have to put into effect if the situation became more serious.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he would not go into detail on what further measures the government was prepared to take if circumstances required.

The establishment of Soviet missiles in Cuba has brought a new area of instability which threatens "not only the United States but the Caribbean and South America as well," Home said.

A message from Queen Elizabeth was read to the legislature.

Blockade Stays In Meantime

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House officials said today the blockade of Cuba will continue even though President Kennedy has expressed willingness to explore the possibilities of a peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—President Kennedy today offered to arrange negotiations on the Cuba crisis, but avoided a direct answer to Acting Secretary-General U Thant's appeal for a temporary suspension of the arms quarantine.

The U.S. president's reply was read to the United Nations Security Council by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson as word reached here that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had agreed to end arms shipments to Cuba if the U.S. lifted its naval arms blockade.

Before reading the message, Stevenson made it clear that the U.S. felt the quarantine was vital and that the main problem was not this but the dismantling of missile bases in Cuba.

Kennedy made this reply to Thant:

"I deeply appreciate the spirit which prompted your message of yesterday."

"As we made clear in the Security Council the existing threat was created by the secret introduction of offensive weapons into Cuba, and the answer lies in the removal of such weapons."

"In your message and your statement to the Security Council last night, you have made certain suggestions and have invited preliminary talks to determine whether satisfactory arrangements can be assured."

"Ambassador Stevenson is ready to discuss promptly these arrangements with you."

"I can assure you of our desire to reach a satisfactory and peaceful solution of this matter."

Khrushchev's decision on the freeze was announced by a Tass news agency statement recorded in London, which said the Soviet agreement to hold off arms shipments was conditional on the postponement also of quarantine measures instituted by the United States.

TANKER 'CLEAR'S' BLOCK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. navy blockade ship

intercepted a Russian tanker in the Atlantic early today but let it proceed through the quarantine ring to Cuba because no prohibited materials were aboard.

The high seas encounter was the first reported since President Kennedy ordered the naval blockade to cut off the flow of Communist missiles and other aggressive weapons to the Fidel Castro regime.

The defense department said that at least 12 other Soviet ships which might be carrying offensive material had turned back, presumably rather than meet the blockade head on.

RADIO CONTACT

Reports from Congressmen and governors attending a state department briefing in New York said the only contact was by radio and that there was no boarding party.

There was no official confirmation of this here. But the defense department announcement indicated that the tensely-waited meeting between a Russian and a U.S. ship had occurred without incident.

New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, who was present for the New York briefing, said the Soviet captain answered a radio message from the U.S. ship.

The Soviet captain, according to another Congressman, said his cargo consisted of petroleum. There has been no ban on shipments of this to Cuba.

Hughes also said there was "other information" that made it unnecessary to board the ship. In Washington, there was speculation that the vessel and the nature of its cargo may have been known in advance through intelligence activities.

Polish Ship Leads Way

BY HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A highly qualified U.S. informant said today a Polish freighter is approaching the American naval blockade around Cuba and Soviet Premier Khrushchev may be planning to have this vessel put up the first Communist challenge to the U.S. Navy.

The informant said that while Communist ships averted a showdown by altering their course Wednesday, another group of Red freighters still maintained their course towards Cuba.

Leading this group is the Polish ship, he said, and on the basis of its present speed and position, it may be confronted by the blockade later today—perhaps in the afternoon.

Of all the Soviet-bloc countries, the U.S. has been operating closest with Poland, providing grain and other assistance on the basis that Poland might eventually be weaned away from the Soviet camp.

Chinese Take Key Indian Town

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian troops have withdrawn from Tawang, main administrative headquarters in the disputed northeast frontier region, after bitter fighting with Chinese troops, it was announced today.

A defence-ministry spokesman said the withdrawal took place according to plan Wednesday after fighting in the outskirts of the town which is near the junction of the Indian, Tibetan and Bhutan borders.

The abbot of the town's historic monastery and some monks were among 200 to 300 civilians—a large proportion of the town's population—who were safely evacuated, he said.

Tawang, site of the Buddhist monastery where the Dalai Lama sheltered on his flight from Tibet in 1959, is the main Indian administrative centre in the salient between Bhutan and Tibet.

Chinese troops could move south from Tawang to seize the Sela Ridge, a natural defensive boundary which is the key to the salient.

URGES NEGOTIATIONS

Thant urged the two world leaders to seize this point of agreement and order negotiations. He said he was acting at the recent request of a large number of UN members—45 non-aligned countries—who have been intensely active for the last few days in trying to find a solution of the deadlock between the U.S. and Russia.

"I declare that I agree with your proposal, which accords with the interests of peace."

Thant told an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council Wednesday night that a suspension of "two or three weeks" might enable the countries to get together and negotiate a settlement of their deadlock over a Russian military build-up in Cuba.

Like other speakers in the council debate, Thant pulled out all the stops in describing the extent of the danger facing the world.

What is at stake is not just the interests of the parties involved, nor just the interests of all member states, but the very fate of mankind," the secretary-general said.

If today the United Nations should prove itself ineffective, it may have proved itself for all time."

Thant noted that there is some common ground—a call for negotiations—in rural embassy was full of demonstrators resolutions presented by the chanting "Yankee go home"

Following a Chinese attack Oct. 20 on another post in the Galwan Valley region of Ladakh, the Indians had withdrawn to regroup after "some fighting."

Jamaica Backs U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The newly-independent Commonwealth island of Jamaica, a near neighbor of Cuba, has endorsed United States action imposing a sea blockade to prevent importation of arms into Cuba, it was disclosed today.

After Thant's speech, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson proposed an adjournment until 4 p.m. EDT today for study of the secretary-general's proposal. Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister and council president for October, declared the motion carried.

NEW YORK — Glamor gal Monique Van Vooren, the bosomy Belgian, and husband Jerry Purcell, the star-manager, are holding off official announcement of their separation, though their close friends have long been aware of it. Purcell, discoverer of Al Hirt, manager of Gretchen Wyler and other stars, says: "We've not even discussed a divorce or legal separation. I think we love and respect each other. There's no third party. But with both of us always travelling, we've had practically no time together." It's the usual ending of one of those "career conflict" stories—made more pointed by the fact that Purcell will continue as Monique's manager, if not as her husband.

JOE E. LEWIS

Joe E. Lewis wound up his 22nd annual engagement at the Copacabana in a blaze of talent. Sometimes this Saloon Sophocles is a college education in one hour. Here are some samples of the learning the B.W. and I got: "I went to see Jackie Gleason play a dead mute in 'Gigot.' It was worth $2 to have him shut his big fat mouth that long" . . . "They are going to change the name of Ole Miss to Southern Mere-dith" . . . "Early to bed, early to rise; you're the type of guy, night clubs despise."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

The working title for the hush-hush Alan Jay Lerner-Richard Rodgers musical is "Daisy" . . . Georgia Gibbs whipped a leg infection, is back at the Persian Room . . . Rock Hudson is planning a Pacific cruise in his new sailing sloop.

Producer Ross Hunter gave Sandra Dee the $18,000 wardrobe she wears in "If A Man Answers" . . . A record company spent 29Gs to arrange a concert starring a famed jazz star, sold tickets and filled the hall. Then the star decided he wasn't ready, and sent everybody home.

Fat Boone's taking flying lessons . . . Some of the Times Sq. "fascination" game stores now give paid stamps . . . The French newspapers are gushing over the Kim Novak-

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH

Nick Manero finally figured out what to do with his old sports car. He's gonna make a lamp out of it.

EARL'S PEARLS:

A teen-age bride sighed that she may have married too young: "I went right from homework to housework."

"I'll love you when you're old and grey and wrinkled," Nipsey Russell tells his girl. "Oh, I'll still love you—but I won't be with you" . . . That's earl, brother.

PROF PHUMBLE

Brigitte Bardot may do an hour TV spec for an American sponsor (Not! Not for towel company . . . hush up). N.Y. fashion manager Martin Goodman originated the deal. BB's now negotiating in Paris with his representative, the Marquis de la Passadiere, band of Lilo, the French "Can-Can" star. BB prefers filming in Paris, fearing to face the U.S. press and the U.S. wolves.
